THE UTILITY INVESTMENT

Any community's biggest single investment is in its utilities—its electric, gas and electric railway equipment.

To give a community service it is necessary for the utility company to invest $5 of investor's money in plants and equipments for approximately each $1 of gross revenue, in the form of sales service, it may expect back in a year's time. No other business in any community is conducted on so slow a turnover. In other words, an individual can engage in any other business on much less capital than he can in the utility business.

Once in the ground, utility property is as much a part of a community as its sewers, sidewalks, or streets and just as readily usable by all residents of it as the latter.

If it is necessary for this property to be expanded—new gas pipes to be laid; instruments and switchboards to be put in; electric light and power lines to be extended; street car lines to be built—in order to meet the public demand for service, the same thing must be done as when sidewalks are built, or sewers put in.

The utility must go out and get the money to buy the material and pay for the labor. It is in the same position as the city which goes into a bank to borrow money. If its credit is good it gets a loan. If it isn't it doesn't. If it doesn't the new improvements aren't built. It is just the same with the utility. If new additions to plan and extensions of facilities are asked for, the utility has to go out and borrow the money. If it cannot show it is entitled to credit—entitled to borrow money because of its financial soundness and ability to pay the going rate of interest—it doesn't get the money, as no one will take "a bad note." The result is the extension isn't built and those who want service (meaning the public) don't get it.

Chamber Members to Gather More Than a Thousand Strong to Hear Theodore H. Price and Plan Work of New Year—Elect New President.

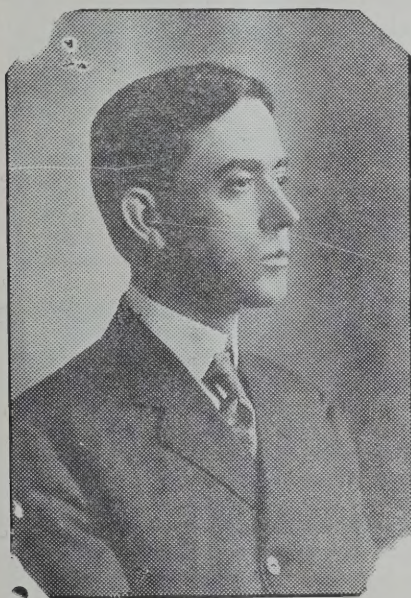

On the evening of Friday, November 4th, in Textile Hall, the 1921 annual meeting and banquet of the Greenville Chamber of Commerce will be held, and members of the growing organization will gather more than a thousand strong to hear an address by Theodore H. Price, business writer and expert of national fame, to hear other addresses, to consummate the work of electing a president to succeed F. W. Symmes, to hear reports on the excellent a dozen men have been in the running up until a very few days ago, and the name of the man who has received the greatest number of votes is known only to the chairman of the program committee for the banquet, which had charge of the mail balloting.

The annual report of the officers and committees of the Chamber is carried in this issue of the magazine, together with a classified membership directory. As this information is extremely valuable, all members are urged to preserve their copies of this magazine for future reference.

This year's annual banquet will bring additional honor to the name of Greenville, if the extensive plans for the event work out successfully, for few achievements of the year now closing and to outline plans for the work of the new year.

Mr. Price, who is editor of Commerce and Finance, and whose articles in magazines and newspapers throughout the land have attracted wide attention, pays great honor to Greenville by his acceptance of the invitation to come to this city and address the Chamber of Commerce in its biggest session of the year. His address promises to be a rare treat.

In addition to Mr. Price's speech an address will be made by Dr. Ernest N. Smith, noted speaker and humorist of the executive staff of the United States Chamber of Commerce, Washington, D. C.

President Symmes will preside over the session, and will make the president's annual address and report. The name of his successor, who has been nominated by the democratic mail ballot system used by the organization, will become known at the banquet, and the election will be completed there. Almost

HOME COMING WEEK

Mammoth Historical Pageant and Big County Fair Feature of One of Greatest Programs in City's History.

November 6 to 12 is Home Coming Week in Greenville, and one of the most interesting and most attractive programs ever staged here will be offered during that time.

Gen'l Chm. Pageant Committee.

The object of Home Coming Week, as planned by the Chamber's special committee, which is headed by Fred W. Graham, and on which serve Stanley Ryan and John S. Hursey, with sub-committees, is to bring back to this city, at least for a visit, many of those whose business or other interests have taken them away from the city they love during the past few decades. Indications are that this object will be attained, and that many hundreds in addition will come as visitors, for the good people of Greenville have co-operated splendidly in urging their out-of-town friends and relatives to come here during the week.

Home Coming Sunday is the first event of the week, this coming on November 6. On that day all churches are asked to hold special Home Coming services. Each church in the city no doubt will have many former members as visitors on the occasion.

The biggest day of the week will be Friday, which is Armistice Day, and on which the mammoth historical pageant, "The Keowee Trail," will be staged twice at the County Fair grounds. In this pageant, which is being staged for the purpose of teaching all people of Greenville and of this section the important and fascinating history of the section, more than 2,500 will take part, and an attendance of many thousands is expected.

MISS NINA LAMKIN
Director of Pageant.

Every day of Home Coming Week, except the first two, Sunday and Monday, will be featured by the first annual Greenville County Fair, which promises to develop this year into the largest and liveliest county fair in the state. The fair association, which was organized by the Chamber of Commerce, has purchased a large tract of land on the Laurens road and has transformed it into one of the best fair grounds in the entire section. That the fair will be thronged with visitors daily cannot be doubted.

On Saturday, the last day of Home Coming Week, Furman and Carolina will meet in a football game on Furman's Manly Field that promises to be a classic.

IT'S WORKING

A couple of months ago, or more, a Chamber of Commerce committee conceived the idea of establishing a central cotton market here and decided to put this idea into effect, all of which was aimed to make of Greenville the real cotton center of the section.

Although in existence but a few weeks, the plan is working and is working splendidly. Farmers who never before marketed their cotton here, but who have always preferred to do so if all things were equal, now are bringing their bales to the central market on East Court street, where free grading service and temporary storage is theirs for the asking. In addition, buyers from Greenville's enterprising cotton brokerage firms are on hand to offer them the best prices for their cotton.

The plan is working to the satisfaction of farmers and city folks alike, and is proving a great benefit not alone to the city but to the county.

Officers and directors of the central market are: J. W. Kirkpatrick, president; C. C. Hindman, vice president; W. C. Beacham, treasurer; Wm. R. Timmons, secretary; E. M. Blythe, attorney; O. P. Mills, C. O. Allen, W. S. Griffin and John A. Russell.

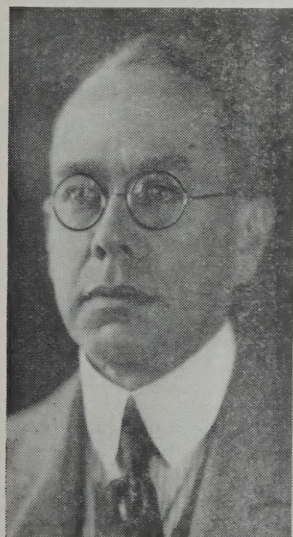

MISS THERESA SCHMIDT,
Asst. Director of Pageant.

WHAT'S WHAT AMONG OUR RETAILERS

Maj. G. Heywood Mahon Elected President of the Retail Bureau for the Coming Year and Will Have Hearty Support of all Lines Represented in the Bureau.

By H. E. Stradley.

President Symmes, the retiring President of the Chamber of Commerce—a man whom we have all learned to admire for his keen insight into business activities—stated at a recent meeting of the Editorial Council of this magazine, that it was his desire that everything written for "Greenville" should be in the future tense and by no means in the past tense. We all agreed with him. However, one cannot help but feel that in this issue the wonderful meeting of the Retail Merchants Bureau banquet at the Imperial Hotel on the evening of October 18 should be mentioned.

W. M. GRIER,
Chairman Pageant Historical Committee.

Major Mahon was chosen President of the Bureau to succeed Mr. J. W. Kirkpatrick. This election meets with the approval of every member of the Bureau, for we all know Major Mahon well, and most of us know him "personally." The writer knows Major Mahon well enough to "talk" about him. He does not like to be called "little" physically, but Major Mahon is the biggest little man you ever knew. Major is a big-hearted, whole-hearted business man; he is clean inside and outside, a man you can absolutely put every confidence in and feel he will not disappoint you. Furthermore, Major is a good business man. He is going to make us a corking good President. His heart is in the work of upbuilding Greenville. He will make good.

Mr. Kirkpatrick, our retiring President of the Bureau, has won the admiration of us all by the splendid work he has done for the merchants of Greenville. To say that he has accomplished much is putting it very mildly. He has recently been elected President of the State Merchants Association, a great big job, but one he is capable of filling. We are sure in the newer, larger field Mr. Kirkpatrick will have the opportunity to show just what his ambition is for the mercantile interests of our dear old State. We are sure he has the hearty support and best wishes of every merchant in the city as well as the State. "Go to it, Mr. Kirk."

O. P. MILLS,
Pres. County Fair Association.

Before leaving the subject of the Bureau's banquet, we must not overlook the great part Mr. Hagler, Chairman of the Program Committee and manager of Efrd's Department Store here in Greenville, had in giving us such a wonderful and delightful entertainment. Mr. Hagler deserves the thanks of us all and we are going to expect very much more of him in the future. Mr. Hagler thinks, or rather makes out like, he is rather a stranger among us, but we assure him he isn't. He is slated for much C. of C. work in the future.

J. P. POOLE,
Vice Pres. County Fair Assn.

A. H. CHAPMAN,
Secretary County Fair Assn.

That wonderful "Greenville Spirit" was certainly evident among the retailers and commented on many times by the visitors at our annual meeting. It's coming, fellow merchants, keep it up. Together we will win, but divided we will not succeed. We must forget all selfish interest and present one united retail front, always ready to fight our retail battles—and we will then surely win. It will take the closest co-operation. With such co-operation we will surely put Greenville "on the map" as far as her mercantile interests are concerned. We will do more—we will not only make Greenville the convention city of South Carolina, but we will make it the "trading center" of the Piedmont Section of the South.

Mr. Young, of Washington, who spoke to us at the annual meeting on several timely subjects of interest to retailers, called our attention to the wonderful opportunity we—as retailers—have for influencing the buying public, since our stores are open six days in every week while our churches are open only on Sundays. Most of us overlook this fact. Keep it in mind, fellow members, and let's get some good from this thought. Some unscrupulous manufacturers are trying to turn the tide of discontent and unemployment against the retailers. All of us are not angels, but most of us are right at heart and are not trying to take advantage of our customers. Unless we do our part in trying to influence the right sort of propaganda and stem the tide other interests have tried to turn against us, we may live to regret that we have not done our part in this matter. The public must be made to understand what manufacturers' casts, transportation, overhead, taxes, depreciation, and such things mean to every retail store.

In the words of President-elect Mahon, "While the farmer is the backbone of a community, the merchant is its nerves."

Let's do our part for the Greenville of the future.

MEMBERSHIP PLATES

Greenville's leaders find just pride in the fact that they are working members of the Chamber of Commerce. Because of this, the Board of Directors of the organization, in session last week, voted to purchase handsome brass membership plates to distribute free among the members, each member being presented a membership plate upon payment of semi-annual dues for the first half of the new fiscal year. The plates bear words showing that the owner is a member of the Chamber, and will be most attractive when placed in store windows or on the walls of offices.

FIVE O'CLOCK CLUB

The Woman's Bureau has organized a Five O'clock, similar to the Ten O'clock Club that the men have worked so successfully in their department of the Chamber of Commerce. The women are more enthusiastic in this club, which has a contest attached. When every member is given the pleasure of securing five new members, and succeeds, they are known as graduates, and are exempt from further membership duty. The undergraduates are to give the graduates a reception some day in the future. During the past three weeks, there have been seven graduates, and many others have almost completed the course. The following have graduated: Mrs. J. P. Ables, Hill Crest Drive; Mrs. Rosa K. Ashmore, 107 Prentiss avenue; Mrs. O. L. Doster, 120 Mallard street; Mrs. B. D. Hahn, 500 Perry avenue; Mrs. Chester Hatch, McDaniel avenue; Mrs. John Herndon, 212 Manley street, and Miss Etta McGee, 520 E. Washington street.

NEW BUREAU HEADS

The various bureaus in the Chamber of Commerce have held their annual elections, which are fore-runners always of the annual Chamber banquet, with the result that the following have been chosen as bureau presidents for the coming year:

Good Roads: F. F. Beattie.

Booster: Robert I. Woodside.

Industrial: Milton G. Smith.

Municipal and Public Affairs: Fred W. Symmes.

Automotive Trades: O. P. Mills.

Retail: Major G. Heyward Mahon, Jr.

Traffic: Guy B. Foster.

Wholesale: G. K. Livingstone.

Agricultural: J. Rion McKissick.*

Woman's Bureau. Mrs. M. P. Gridley.

The two new bureaus created by the Board of Directors, the Convention and Publicity Bureau and the Young Men's Bureau, have not yet held their organization meetings.

FOR GOOD ROADS

The Chamber of Greenville has decided to join with Spartanburg and Anderson in inviting the good roads committee of the state legislature to visit this Piedmont section next January when the legislature goes into session, with a view to placing such facts before the committeemen as will lead to the procuring of more and better highways in this section. It is believed that the invitation will be accepted.

sional men and women of Greenville. The membership of 1,200 in the Chamber of Commerce has worked faithfully and untiringly in behalf of the community, and leaders are sincere in stating that every one of the members deserves great credit for his share of the results accomplished.

November 1st brought to a close the 1921 fiscal year of the Chamber, and the organization now is embarking upon the 1922 fiscal year. That this period will bring the organization up to an even stronger standing and larger membership is the prediction of many.

For the new year, the Chamber has a very ambitious program of work, each bureau having assumed arduous but important tasks to perform. One of the most important projects on foot is the establishment in Greenville of a large and adequate system of parks, and indications are that plans formulated in this direction and worked upon for months by faithful committeemen will be brought to a successful culmination before the end of this new fiscal year.

SOMETHING

He—"I've an awful cold in my head."
She—"Well, that's something."

THE BETTER THING

It is better to lose with a conscience clean
Than win by a trick unfair;
It is better to fail and to know you've been,
Whatever the prize was, square,
Than to claim the joy of a far-off goal
And the cheers of the standers-by,
And to know down deep in your inmost soul
A cheat you must live and die.

Who wins by trick may take the prize,
And at first he may think it sweet,
But many a day in the future lies
When he'll wish he had met defeat;
For the man who lost shall be glad at heart
And walk with his head up high,
While his conqueror knows he must play the part Of a cheat and a living lie.

The prize seems fair when the fight is on,
But save it is truly won
You will hate the thing when the crowds are gone,
For it stands for a false deed done,
And it's better you never should reach your goal
Than ever success to buy
At the price of knowing down in your soul
That your glory is all a lie.

UNSELFISH SERVICE

"Sacrifice" and "service" are excellent words for the subject of an address. Illustrations from every walk of life can be cited which will stir the emotions, start the tears, or kindle the enthusiasm of an audience. Frequently, however, the matter ends there. So many of us delight to have our emotions stimulated and "fool" ourselves into thinking that when we have applauded a noble sentiment or shed tears over an ideal that we have thereby practiced the sentiment and realized the ideal in our lives. "Sacrifice" and "service" are not mere emotions; they are primarily actions. "Sacrifice" and "service" mean to suffer pain and inconvenience; actually to deprive ourselves for others.

The economic life of our nation is passing through a financial depression. Profits are small and business is less. Yet the charitable and philanthropic need of Greenville have increased in proportion to the growth of the community. How are these needs to be met? Only by actual sacrifice and service on the part of our citizens.

How many men place community needs first in their budgets and regulate their expenditures in time and money accordingly? How many men in Greenville would be willing to ride in a Ford rather than in an expensive automobile in order for Greenville to have an adequate public library?

We value Greenville to the extent we are willing to sacrifice for Greenville's interest, in time, money, and effort, in the many phases of community activity opens before us.

Today is the day to practice our precepts.

A BIG SHOW

Another big textile show in the huge Textile Hall on West Washington street may be added to Greenville's growing list of successful events of this nature, for the Textile Products Show, from October 6 to 12, was one of the most unique and best undertakings of this nature ever attempted in America. Throughout the textile and allied trade, the name of Greenville is increased in prestige and fame because of this show.

William G. Sirrine and his faithful associates in the Textile Hall Corporation are to be congratulated upon the Textile Products Show. The old rule that "Mighty oaks from little acorns grow" no doubt will hold here, and it seems safe to predict that the second Textile Products Show, which will very probably be held in 1923, will be twice as big and twice as successful as this first.

Before and during the show, the Chamber of Commerce devoted its efforts to work for the show. Numbers of committeemen of the Chamber were at work in accordance with the Industrial Bureau's plan to bring every branch office and manufacturing plant possible to this city. A daily bulletin which kept exhibitors and visitors posted and which, incidentally, spread good words about the fair city of Greenville, was issued by this organization. Previous to the show, the Chamber's publicity department lent its co-operation in advertising the event.

Officers and directors of Textile Hall Corporation, who are responsible for the success of the show, are: William G. Sirrine, president; Roger S. Huntington, secretary; Ellison A. Smyth, B. E. Geer, John W. Arrington, J. F. Gallivan, W. W. Carter, Edwin Howard, J. E. Sirrine, John A. McPherson, Aug. W. Smith. Auditor, Dakyns B. Stover; assistant manager, W. Hayne Perry.

LEADING THE WORLD

This is a day of superlatives, and another superlative for Greenville has been found: J. Woodfin Mitchell has investigated carefully and finds that all the towns in the world named Greenville, with the exception of our own city, have a combined population of only 64,698, while the population of the one and real Greenville exceeds the 48,000 mark.

Much has been said about the fact that Greenville, South Carolina, is by far the largest of the many communities in America which bear the same name, but this is the first time the fact has been pointed out that Greenville's population is almost as great as the combined population of all other Greenvilles in the world.

THE RED CROSS

The Red Cross has been most successful in planning for its fifth Red Cross roll call, November 1-8, 1921, in having Mr. B. E. Geer as chairman of the roll call, and in securing the able assistance of experts and women vitally interested in the work, to assist them in lining up the campaign. Mr. Geer has organized the roll call in the following manner:

The business people all over the city and county are organized in business groups, and each store, as well as each block in the town, has its chairman. In every place the Red Cross representative, Mrs. W. W. Stover, has met with the most cordial co-operation and enthusiasm; and in each store some one has pledged themselves to service.

During the last year the local Red Cross has specialized in home service work, and thousands of men have been benefitted by the office's technical and legal assistance, as well as by material help. The U. S. P. H. S. Hospital No. 26 has necessarily increased the work, as it is natural for the wives and families of the ill men to desire to be near them during their period of treatment.

The local home service office has tried to assist these suffering families of men away from Greenville, as well as our own local disabled men, who really deserve all they can receive.

The report for the last year indicates great activity among the different divisions of the organization. A Junior Red Cross and a nursing division has also been organized.

FIGHTING TUBERCULOSIS

Did you know that during 1920 the number of deaths in Greenville city from tuberculosis was 36, the number in Greenville county 202 and the number in the State of South Carolina 1,500? And did you know that a young but very strong organization, the Greenville County Tuberculosis Association, now five months old, is actively combatting this problem which is faced by every community in America and is bringing about conditions that will place Greenville far above the average in this matter?

The National Tuberculosis Association has been in existence 14 years. Each state now has an organization, and Greenville is one of 1,100 counties in the nation having a county association, and one of the four counties having such organizations in South Carolina. The aim of the association is to arouse every man, woman and child to take part on the fight to cure the 60 per cent already suffering from tuberculosis and to prevent the 100 per cent from infection.

Miss M. H. Oetzel, who has charge of the work of this association in Greenville, and whose offices are located in the court house, states that the control of tuberculosis is possible only by adequate sanatorial equipment, provision for sufficient number of public health nurses to supervise cases taking treatment in sanatoria, educating the general public to the need of early diagnosis and making available scientific examination through free clinics.

The interest of school authorities, teachers and pupils of Greenville city and county assure the Tuberculosis Association of the success of their part of the campaign against the white plague. The county health commission and the city department of health are co-operating to the fullest extent, and the three are planning a series of clinics to be held in the city and various parts of the county. The County Medical Society has endorsed the program and the physicians are assisting with the clinics. Col. J. E. Dedman, commander of the Public Health Service Hospital at Camp Sevier, also is lending valuable assistance.

TRAINING THE BOYS

By William F. Robertson.

When fifty or a hundred thousand of forward looking American citizens set themselves to a definite task, we can look for results. Just such a force is working along certain lines in Greenville today, and is making itself felt in certain lines of progressive accomplishment.

The general training of the boy, the future citizen of the city and the nation, is one of the particular matters to which Rotary here is generously and successfully devoting much of its time, energy and means. The Boy Program is too ambitious to be dissected and detailed in such an article as this, but it takes full care of the growing boy morally, mentally and physically.

The Boy of Today, The Man of Tomorrow, is the fine subject of a series of inspirational talks during the winter season participated in by Dr. W. J. McGlothlin, president of Furman University; Dr. Pat Fletcher, of the same institution; Dr. J. L. Mann, superintendent of Greenville's public schools; "Uncle Johnny" Holmes, trainer extraordinary of boys and secretary of the Y. M. C. A.; Rev. Frank A. Juhan, specialties theology and football, and Roger Huntington, a live wire where the advancement of the future citizen is concerned.

Work for the boys represents a task in which the whole community is interested and in which Rotary is striving with its talks, games, vocational work, summer camps, etc., to do its part. Hence the deep and helpful interest of the organization in schools, school buildings, Y. M. C. A., Sunday schools, athletics, and vocational training of all boys in the community.

The big heart of Rotary joyously enters this work for the boy of Greenville.

W. LINDSAY SMITH,
President Rotary Club.

Now, somebody tell the one about the deaf and dumb asylum inmate who broke his thumb yelling fire.

KIWANIANS AND THE WORKING GIRL

By J. E. Brunson.

An active interest in the welfare of the girls of Greenville who work for a living is being taken by the Kiwanis Club of Greenville. In addition to assisting the Young Women's Christian Association in the maintenance of a summer camp during the past summer, the club not long ago took up the subject of establishing in Greenville a home for the working girl, with the idea of providing additional facilities for comfortable and home-like living quarters at a moderate price for these young ladies.

While the subject has not been discussed at any of the recent luncheons, leading members of the club still have the working girls' home subject in mind, and plan to bring it again to the front whenever the time seems propitious. The club has in mind, among other plans, that of aiding the trustees of the estate left by the late D. D. Davenport for the purpose of establishing a girls' home. The property is located on East McBee avenue, and is known as the "Old Elks Home." Together with this property, a fund now amounting to about $32,000 was left. Trustees of the estate, in a statement to the club not long ago, explained that a somewhat larger fund than this is necessary in order to carry out a plan in accordance with the known wishes of the late Mr. Davenport. Something like $50,000 should be in hand, it was stated. At the time this report was made, it was not deemed advisable to take further steps, but with the improvement of conditions generally, several members of the club have expressed a hope that the club may be able to assist the trustees in bringing the subject more prominently to public attention, with a view of devising ways and means of securing the additional funds necessary.

Such an institution would fill a great need in Greenville just now, many members believe. The number of working girls is constantly growing, and while the Y. W. C. A. is providing a very desirable living place for many of them, its facilities are not equal to the need.

W. P. CONYERS,
President Kiwanis Club.

ANNUAL REPORT OF BOARD OF DIRECTORS AND COMMITTEES

To the Membership:

The year 1921 has been marked by many stupendous changes throughout the commercial and financial world, but your Board of Directors, in making the annual report begs especially to call your attention to the fact that the Chamber of Commerce, thanks to your loyal support and co-operation, has gone steadily ahead. Taking into consideration the stringency of the money market the organization has made wonderful progress and many important accomplishments have helped Greenville in her long strides toward her goal as the "Leading City of the Carolinas."

This report will necessarily be able to touch the high spots only and each member not familiar with the detailed work of the organization will have to fill in with his imagination the many activities of the various committees which, while important, were not deemed by the Executive Committee sufficiently so to be included in a brief resume covering a year.

I. Increase in Membership.

1. Due to the activity of the Ten O'Clock Club, the membership was increased during the year from slightly more than 1,000 to more than 1,250. Not a week passes and scarcely a day that some newcomer or old resident does not sign an application blank.

2. The prospects for a continued increase in membership are very bright indeed and it is believed by your present membership chairman that before another year has passed the membership of the Chamber, including the Woman's Division and the proposed Junior Chamber, will be at least 1,750 to 2,000.

II. Organization.

1. The Bureau System which has been in vogue for almost two years now has been pronounced entirely satisfactory by the Board and recently two new bureaus have been authorized. These are the Convention and Publicity Bureau and the Automotive Trades Bureau. The latter is not a new group and has been very successfully operated independently of the Chamber, but at the request of the automobile dealers, is now affiliated with the Chamber and includes garages and filling stations.

2. The Staff at the Chamber's headquarters is well organized and is functioning expeditiously and efficiently. The general assistant to the managing secretary acts in the capacity of office manager and publicity secretary, while in addition the staff includes the traffic secretary, the Woman's Bureau secretary, two stenographers and the market secretary (cotton grader and buyer for the merchants).

III. Finance.

1. All matters of finance are handled by the Board of Directors, though before appropriations are made, the Executive Committee makes a study of the proposed budget which the bureaus or committees desire and recommends favorably or adversely to the Board.

2. Each member's attention is called to the financial report, which is given in a supplement and which shows that the Board has not permitted the financial expenditures to exceed the appropriations made in the budget. These budgets are made at the beginning of each six months' term and are regulated to great extent by the projects which the different bureaus may have on foot.

IV. General.

1. Membership meetings have been held monthly when possible, though this custom has been interfered with by having no meeting place except the County Court House. When court is in session it is not convenient to use the court room. One of the most important undertakings for the year 1922 should be to provide an assembly room for the organization which will make possible membership meetings and the holding of several committee meetings simultaneously.

2. Much preliminary work has been done in the matter of finding out the age limits, necessary budget, plan of organization, and attempted projects of Junior divisions or Chambers throughout the United States. All this data is available for the proposed Young Men's Bureau which has been recommended by the Board and by many of the young men of the city who are willing and anxious to do their part in the civic and commercial advancement of the Textile Center of the South, but who feel that they should be admitted to the organization at a less rate of dues than those business men who have been actively engaged in business for a longer time and are naturally in better financial condition than the Juniors.

3. A suitable membership sign has been ordered and will be given to the members immediately. These signs are very attractive and made of metal. At the bottom of each sign is a slot to which will be attached from year to year the figures 1922, 1923, and so forth, thereby keeping it up to date at all times.

4. Real estate prospects have been secured through outside correspondence during the year and in many instances new-comers have been brought to the city and property sold to them by real estate members of the organization. All these prospects are given to each real estate member.

5. The Rest Room, which is maintained jointly by the Chamber of Commerce and the city administration has increased in service and popularity each month and the matron files monthly reports which indicate the absolute necessity of a continuance of this good work.

6. An extension committee appointed for the purpose of co-operating with other cities in their civic and commercial problems has been very active during the year and has been of material assistance to five smaller organizations. Addresses have been made and other help extended which was made possible by the larger experience and ability of this organization's committees and officers.

7. Much attention has been given to co-operation with the United States Chamber of Commerce, through prompt action on various referenda sent out by the national body. The Greenville Chamber has profited much by advice and data sent from national headquarters. More and more influence is being exerted in national affairs by communities in every state and Greenville exerts her share of influence on the right side by having committees make it their business to study these questions thoroughly.

8. Greenville was selected as the "Summer Capitol" in June after Governor Cooper had been invited to come here with his family for the summer months. This arrangement was made possible by the co-operative effort of the Chamber of Commerce, the Paris Mountain Land Company, Allen J. Graham, and the Woman's Bureau.

9. It is hardly necessary to mention the thousands of inquiries which were received and given prompt attention by the office staff since last November. Some of these were very unimportant and simply wanted some bit of information which meant a great deal to the inquirer but probably would help Greenville very little, except to make a friend of the correspondent. Others resulted in interesting future citizens of Greenville and of course were immensely important. In addition to these written inquiries an average of one person every ten minutes during the day calls at the Chamber for information from some department, the Road Information Bureau, the Employment Bureau, the Information Desk, or otherwise.

10. Co-operation has been extended the American Legion in its drive for the relief of disabled service men. This co-operation has been both financial and in other ways, and the commander of the local post is authority for the statement that more has been done toward getting the affairs of service men who were entitled to compensation straightened out here than anywhere else in the south.

11. Speakers of nation-wide reputation have been provided for the entire membership. Among these are Hon. Josephus Daniels, ex-secretary of the navy; Hon. W. P. G. Harding, of the Federal Reserve Board; Colvin B. Brown, of the United States Chamber, and for the annual meeting to be held November 4th, Theo. H. Price, editor of Commerce and Finance of New York city.

12. It is proper that acknowledgement of our gratitude be given the local press for the efficient and whole-hearted co-operation extended the organization during the past year. In the opinion of the board the active support of the papers in helping secure the co-operation of the public in the different projects is as necessary to the successful operation of a Chamber of Commerce as is the live Chamber of Commerce to a live and growing city. That this support and co-operation is appreciated goes without saying, but pleasure is taken in this public expression of appreciation and it is hoped that with the properly directed growth of Greenville, which is the aim of each member of the organization, the papers may reap a just and deserved reward.

V. Agricultural.

1. The Chamber has established a central cotton market on land very reasonably rented for the purpose by the C. & W. C. Railway. A large covered platform at great cost has been erected and the salary of an expert cotton grader provided. The result has been to increase the amount of cotton marketed in the city approximately 1,000 per cent. This work will probably eventually be extended to include other agricultural products as well.

2. The Greenville County Fair Association was organized and assisted after organization in every possible way. The County Fair offices are maintained in the Chamber of Commerce Building, the new association being relieved of maintenance costs, such as heat, light, etc., until such time as it finds itself on a sound financial basis.

Mansion House Bldg.

3. At the call of the President a large meeting of farmers was called which resulted in the organization of the Greenville County Farm Loan Association. Much additional farm capital has thus been brought to the county.

4. The Chamber has paid a part of the salary of the County Demonstration Agent and co-operates with this agent in every way possible. Assistance and co-operation has also been given the Home Demonstration Agent. These offices are maintained in the Chamber of Commerce Building.

5. The Agricultural Council of the Chamber of Commerce is probably the greatest achievement of the year in an agricultural way. This council consists of five men from each of the sixteen townships in the county and of seventy-five city members, and meets on the third Saturday of each month. This council is doing many things for the mutual advancement of the county and city, but most of all it provides the opportunity for the city and county to work unitedly on markets and other projects after it is agreed that these projects are desirable. The farmer members of the council did most of the actual construction work on the new cotton market platform mentioned above.

6. Committees are actively at work on a cannery and a creamery, but so far nothing definite can be announced in this connection.

VI. Good Roads.

1. The good road committees have been active all through the year and in co-operation with the County Supervisor and other road officials have kept a close check on the roads which needed attention. One of these which will keep the two states from being practically cut off entirely while the North Carolina end of the Buncombe road is paved is now being built at the request of the Chamber. Assistance was also rendered in getting the bridge between Greenville and Easley rebuilt by the two counties.

2. A road information bureau has been maintained at the Chamber's headquarters throughout the year. In addition to information compiled locally other cities have swapped road information by letter and telegraphically. Innumerable are the calls for information of this kind from tourists, and the board at all times has maintained that it is the duty of the organization to do all in its power to inspire those passing Greenville-ward with a sincere liking and appreciation of the city and its citizenship.

3. The Bankhead Highway Convention was attended by many members of this Bureau and the Chamber of Commerce Drum Corps was also sent to Greensboro. Although the convention for 1922 went west, Greenville made an indelible impression on the large convention and very probably can get the convention when it asks for it again.

4. To advertise Greenville, "Textile Center of the South" tags were distributed to 1,200 automobilists at twenty-five cents each.

5. Maps of the city and detailed road information placed on large sign boards on the important roads coming into Greenville have also been a boon to motorists.

6. Twenty thousand road maps showing the route from Greenville to Asheville and Greenville to Charleston have also been published and are being distributed. This road was accurately drawn to scale and shows the Greenville route to be shorter than any other. It is commonly conceded that this is the best road from the mountains to the sea and these pamphlets have been a great convenience to those unfamiliar with the route.

VII Industrial.

1. Instead of organizing a building company to take care of the house shortage in Greenville, the Chamber organized a campaign for the sale of building and loan stock. All the local associations co-operated in this drive and it was even more successful than anticipated, several hundred thousand dollars worth of stock being sold. As a consequence of this and other favorable conditions there are more homes being constructed here than in any other city near the size of Greenville in the entire South.

2. Co-operation with Textile Hall is an unwritten law with the organization. The Industrial Committee early in the summer undertook the selling of sufficient advertising among the Greenville concerns to warrant a special rotogravure edition of the New York Journal of Commerce. Greenville and Textile Products Show, which was held October 6 to 12, received more favorable outside advertising from this than from any other one piece of printed matter ever published. The Chamber also undertook a large part of the publicity work for the show and rendered every other possible assistance.

3. The Moose Home about which so much was said and written last winter came in for a large amount of work from the industrial forces of the Chamber. Much time and money was spent in endeavoring to show the officials of the order on their visit of inspection to Greenville that the Home for Aged Moose should be established here. So far, however, no decision has been announced with reference to the location to be selected.

4. A map was compiled under the direction of the Industrial Bureau by (and "with the compliments of") J. E. Sirrine & Company which included the parts of Alabama, Georgia, the two Carolinas and Virginia containing textile mills of any description. The result showed conclusively that Greenville occupied the center of the textile area of the South and contained mills with twice as many spindles as those in any other city with one exception. Of the total of 12,500,000 spindles in this territory Greenville has more than 595,200.

5. After much persuasion from the chairman of Industrial Bureau, the United States Government sent engineers here who finally completed a geological survey map of Greenville County.

6. Much effort has been expended in the campaign to get the government to establish a general hospital in this vicinity, and progress, though slow, is being made.

7. The hotel is not yet under construction. This has been on the program for two years now and is badly needed. The committee in charge have the plans cut and primed and are only waiting the psychological moment to definitely find out if the citizens intend to make possible the project.

8. Some new industries have been established during the past year, though not so many as the year previous. Branch offices, however, continue to select Greenville as headquarters and hardly a day passes that a representative does not stop over and investigate office space and warehouse room.

The Franklin Process Company, a branch dye manufacturing plant, under the joint control of local and Rhode Island capital, will probably employ more workers than any other industry established during the year. This plan is now under construction and will be of great benefit to the many cotton mills in this section and in the South. Other industries are the Peerless Folding Ladder Company and the Shambow Shuttle Company. The Industrial Bureau is now engaged in a survey which will show the extent to which Greenville has grown in all lines industrially and which will be a guide to the Bureau in its work during 1922 for more varied industries. It is estimated by the chairman of the Industrial Bureau that no less than twenty-five branch offices of textile and other lines have been established. The bureau has advertised in the Manufacturers' Record and while a large number of inquiries have been received, nothing so far can be absolutely counted as resulting from the advertising.

IX. Civic and Municipal.

1. The most important civic proposal of the organization during the year has been to have established in the city a system of parks which will result in either a park or playground within half a mile of every family in the city. The Mayor is with us in this proposal and while it has not officially been acted upon by City Council, no councilman has expressed his disapproval of the plan. At present the Chamber has accomplished the biggest end of the task. The surveys have been made, the options secured and, when council appoints the park commission, all of these options will be turned over to that commission. Of course, this does not mean that they will be used, but it does mean that at least one feasible set of options will be available which the commission can use. The co-operation of the entire public in completing the park plan is solicited as it is a mammoth undertaking and one which is necessary if Greenville is not to lose ground from a civic standpoint.

2. A Landing Field has been maintained during the year for the use of commercial fliers, pleasure flyers and Government flyers. The lease has expired now, but the Chamber has made arrangements with the County Fair Association to maintain supervision over the landing field at the fair grounds. This field will likely be given the name of the old landing field, which has become generally known as the Donaldson field.

3. In addition to the road information bureau mentioned above, there has been maintained an employment bureau and a housing bureau. The employment bureau has been only reasonably successful, due to the fact that there has always been a few more in search of jobs than there were openings, but quite a good many stenographers, bookkeepers and common laborers have been placed, while a few other types of workers have been directed to employers. The housing bureau has found apartments and rooms for a large number of new-comers, but not as many as during 1920.

4. Last Christmas the Chamber of Commerce, in co-operation with other organizations in the two Carolinas and Tennessee, contributed to a Christmas fund which was used in purchasing gifts for the ex-service men in the U. S. Public Health Service Hospital at the Camp.

5. Taxation has occupied a prominent place in the deliberations of the board and the committees. In the matter of State taxation the Chamber went on record as favoring high taxation rather than to stop progress, but there seems to be much dissatisfaction now as to the non-equality which exists in state and county taxes. Action was taken on many matters of federal taxation also after committees had studied the questions and reported back.

6. The Chamber Glee Club has been operated very successfully according to the officers of the club and at the present time has about twenty-five or thirty men from all walks of life who regularly practice each week and who render selections whenever requested to do so.

7. With mutual satisfaction to the public and the gas company the Chamber brought about a reduction of 10 cents per thousand in the price of cooking gas.

8. The organization has steadily refused to assume the attitude of dictating or even suggesting the price of commodities, but investigations have been made from time to time which showed that retail prices in Greenville were seldom out of line with other cities. In fact the prices generally showed up to better advantage, especially when the lowest existing prices of food-stuffs locally were taken as the basis. When commodities were found out of line, the local retailers were notified of this fact, not for the purpose of telling him what price to ask for his goods but to give him the benefit of the investigation so that he could make whatever changes might seem to him to be for the benefit of himself and his customers.

9. Another civic project made possible by the Chamber is the mammoth pageant, "The Keowee Trail," a portrayal of immense importance from a community-historical standpoint. The president appointed L. P. Hollis, one of our liveliest members, as general chairman for the pageant and he was able to employ a director for the work from the New York office of Community Service. Every organization in the city is doing its "bit" in this huge undertaking and cities and communities all over the Piedmont section are lending a hand to make the event of lasting benefit to the community and state. The local staff of Community Service has devoted practically all of its time to the pageant for the past month or more and a large part of the credit for the success attained will be due it.

10. The Chamber gave financial aid to the Furman University Summer School which last summer was consolidated with summer schools of four other college summer schools in the state and held in Greenville.

11. A Drum Corps has been reorganized and put upon its feet, which will probably be known as the Junior Chamber of Commerce Drum Corps if plans of the committee in charge are consummated. This drum corps is available for all conventions or parades when desirable.

12. Probably the most far reaching effort on the part of the municipal and civic division in the latter half of the year constitutes the carefully organized plan to take advantage of the numerous events of the week of November 6th to 12th for the purpose of staging a "Home-coming Week." This week has been advertised far and near and the committee in charge has planned something suitable for every day which was not taken care of by plans already made. It is estimated that 100,000 people will be interested in some one way or another by the many events which are to take place.

X. Traveling Salesman and Booster.

1. What is the booster bureau? It is a self-appointed group of the Chamber's membership which meets once each month, usually on the fourth Saturday, at luncheon, for the purpose of learning something about Greenville, industrially or otherwise, and of bringing to the attention of the organization anything of importance which should be handled by the bureau or by any other department of the Chamber.

2. The booster bureau is an "open forum." It is the place where any member, no matter how important a citizen or how modest, may "open up" on what he thinks the Chamber ought or ought not to do.

3. Here, local manufacturing or other business concerns are discussed by the members or by representatives with a view to teaching Greenville about herself. The "know Greenville" idea is the slogan and traveling men and others are given the correct "dope" so that when elsewhere they can talk Greenville and know what they are talking about; they can talk figures.

4. Occasionally this bureau has a unique thought and immediately puts it into practice. Recently it entertained every school teacher at a luncheon and great was the sigh thereof. Over one hundred teachers were guests, most of them ladies, and with Chamber of Commerce members on each side of them, "going to school again" and at the same time teaching the teachers to have an enthusiasm and a love for the "Textile Center of the South."

5. The bureau has also started several projects which were passed on to the proper committees of the Chamber. It originates and discusses, but has no authority to "resolute;" only the Board of Directors or the Chamber membership meetings can pledge the organization either as to influence or finance, except of course to the extent of the budget provided by the board for the bureau. It is one of the most important activities of the Chamber of Commerce and produces more enthusiasm and city-boosting spirit than any other department.

XI. Retail Merchants

1. Saved $12,600.00 through refusing to use any advertising medium before it was approved by the secret advertising committee appointed by the president and unknown to the membership or the public.

2. Secured the loan of several hundred thousand dollars which was passed on to the farmers through the banks for the purpose of holding cotton.

3. Materially assisted in the establishment of the Central Cotton Market and later placed a merchants cotton buyer at the platform who has bought cotton ever since at the very top of the market. This has resulted in making Greenville as good if not the best market in the state.

4. Conducted credit bureau which is being used more at the present time than last year, since many merchants are again doing a credit business whereas practically all had gone on a cash basis. By far a majority are still selling for cash only, however.

5. Co-operated with the Greenville Baseball Association in attempt to make good financially.

6. Took steps to have the pernicious passing of "bad checks" stopped. So far much success has come in this matter, but there is still much room for improvement. A bad-check giver, however, is immediately spotted.

7. Held monthly luncheons at which matters of mutual concern were discussed and acted upon.

8. Brought expert lecturers to the city to address merchants and salespeople.

9. Co-operated with Textile Products Show by advertising it to jobbers and wholesalers and by mentioning it in advertisements in local papers.

10. Held several Dollar Days and trade events which were very successful and which showed the power of co-operation in such movements.

11. Prepared and ran in daily papers a series of advertisements educating the public to the readjustment which took place early in the year and urging a continued buying to keep the wheels of industry turning.

12. Appeared before Tax Commission and got that body to give credit for a part of the depreciation on stocks of Greenville merchants.

XII. Traffic.

1. The Chamber arranged more than six months ago for the services of a traffic expert who has acted as traffic secretary and who has been of inestimable value to shippers and consumers alike since that time.

2. Secured the establishment of a number of truck routes in all directions from Greenville at a time when the railroads did not object to losing this local business. These truck lines have made a great success and are increasing from time to time.

3. Advocated and brought about the establishment of bus lines between Greenville and parts of her trade territory where the schedule of local trains was not such as to make it convenient for purchasers to come to the city and return to their homes.

4. Co-operated with local commercial agents of railroads in seeking favorable traffic arrangements with various railroads.

5. Improved Pullman service on two important trains and co-operated with railroads in fixing schedules of other local trains for the benefit and convenience of the people of the Piedmont section.

6. Secured rate of one and one-half fare for return trip on account of Textile Products Show.

7. Adjusted 526 claims for overcharge for shippers of Greenville, amounting to over $10,000.00. There is still pending 126 claims amounting to over $2,000.00 which are being actively prosecuted.

8. Secured specific freight rates and a downward revision of rates on a number of commodities. Conferred with a railroad committee and secured added concessions, beneficial to Greenville, in the pending adjustment of all Carolina rates involved in the fourth section of the Act to Regulate Commerce. The activity of the bureau in this direction will easily save the shippers of Greenville an amount in excess of $50,000.00 per annum. In a larger sense, this work can not be measured in dollars and cents for a satisfactory solution of the freight rate problem means that in the future Greenville will have the opportunity of becoming one of the greatest distributing centers in the South.

XIII. Wholesale Merchants, Jobbers and Brokers.

1. Made rapid strides toward making Greenville the jobbing center of Western Carolina and Eastern Georgia.

2. Entertained fifteen hundred retailers from all over the Piedmont section at a big barbecue and picnic in August. After the picnic the guests were carried to a baseball game and the theaters of the city. The event was a repetition of last year's picnic, except it was more largely attended and a greater success from every standpoint.

3. Held monthly supper-meetings at which credits, contracts, and numerous other subjects of interest to wholesale merchants were discussed and upon which there was a general interchange of ideas.

4. Co-operated in the establishment of the cotton market and platform.

5. Organized the Greenville Wholesale Credit Bureau, which is now operating very successfully with a full-time secretary and with reciprocal relations established with credit bureaus all over the nation.

6. Asked for and received an extension in the time limit for paying taxes.

7. Took many other progressive steps, individually and collectively as a result of the organized effort and friendly spirit existing among the various firms.

XIV. Conventions and Publicity.

1. The Chamber has co-operated to some extent in the entertainment of practically every convention or gathering of any kind held in Greenville during the past year. As near as the records of the board and committees give these conventions, the complete list follows: (1) South Carolina Press Association, (2) State Jewelers Association, (3) State Clothiers Association, (4) South Carolina Manufacturers Association, (5) Weavers' section of Southern Textile Association, (6) State Fireman's Convention, (7) Visitors to Textile Products Show, (8) Presbyterian Synod, (9) Baptist Summer Assembly, (10) Furman Summer School, (11) County Superintendents of South Carolina, (12) Southern Metal Trades Association, (13) Reception for Commander Evangeline Booth, (14) Eleventh Infantry Encampment (15) District Kiwanis Convention.

2. Probably the most important publicity step taken during the year was the decision to publish monthly an up-to-date Chamber of Commerce Magazine. This magazine has been sent all over the country and has made a splendid impression, many chambers claiming it to be the best publication issued by any Chamber in a city of Greenville's size. It is hoped that it will be possible to continue this publication, as it serves not only the purpose of keeping the membership in touch but serves as a good piece of literature to send out to prospective citizens or business firms and manufacturers.

3. Three pamphlets have been issued during the year and in a week or two 5,000 copies of a civic and commercial survey of Greenville and Greenville County will be off the press and ready for distribution.

4. Another accomplishment which has meant much to the city from an advertising point of view was the successful effort to get the trains passing through Greenville to carry "for sale" copies of the Greenville papers.

5. Under Publicity should also be mentioned the auto tags which were distributed in large quantities and the Chapman-Latimer News Bureau. This bureau sent out to fifty papers all over the south from one to two sheets of live news items every day except Sunday, and is more responsible for the hundreds of Greenville items copied in papers in all parts of the country than any other one agency, excepting the Associated Press.

6. Many articles have been prepared in the office and sent out to magazines and newspapers. One of these was published in System magazine, another in Southern Opportunities, others in Women's Wear, Dry Goods Economist, Atlantic Coast Merchant, Chicago Men's Wear, The Apparel Gazette, and many other trade journals and magazines.

XV. Woman's Bureau.

1. About the first of June, the Woman's Bureau was organized with 60 members, and though it is only five months old, the number has increased to 220. The Bureau is now over 100 members larger than any in the south.

2. A Five O'clock Club, similar to the men's Ten O'clock Club, has recently been organized. This club carries an interesting contest, in which the undergraduates who fail to secure five new members, will be asked to give the winners a reception. By this plan, 54 members were secured in three weeks.

3. The membership is almost completely paid up to November 1st, and many have paid to November 1, 1922.

4. The Bureau has taken much interest in the County Fair, furnishing the department superintendents for the household, needlework and floral exhibits.

5. Committees from the Bureau are now making plans for the housing and entertainment of the South Carolina State Conference of Social Workers.

6. Plans for beautifying Greenville by wards is well under way by the women, and much friendly rivalry is expected.

7. The Bureau hopes to beautify one of our highways is a living memorial to the boys who lie on Flanders Field. The National Highway to the Spartanburg line has been suggested, but the city of Laurens is asking that it be built towards their city.

GRAMMAR SCHOOL ATHLETIC ASSN.

An organization of no mean influence among the boys of Greenville, is the Greenville Grammar School Athletic Association, directed jointly by the Young Men's Christian Association and the Greenville Rotary Club Boys' Work Committee. This Association includes the five grammar schools of the city, and a program of athletics and games is conducted from September to May, including activities for both the boys and the girls. In this program the Y. M. C. A. and Rotary Club work closely in harmony with the superintendent of the schools, the principals, and the parents of the boys.

The program includes a football league during the fall, with games weekly at the City Park, a Thanksgiving relay of two miles, basket ball league for boys and for girls, an indoor athletic meet for boys and for girls, an outdoor track and field meet for boys and for girls, a swimming meet, and a baseball league. Cups for all these activities are offered by different business houses of the city, and the trophies are coveted by the teams. In addition to these activities for the boys who are able to make the different representative teams, a program is conducted to care for those who do not enter the more strenuous play. Competitions and games are directed at the different recess periods, volley ball, field hockey and soccer being some of the games that have been tried with success. This year further progress will be made with this program, in addition to the conduct of a series of physical efficiency tests, boys being graded according to the degree of proficiency, and suitable awards made. An effort will also be made to teach swimming to every boy in the Grammar schools over the age of twelve years.

The association does not wish to make athletics and play the all consuming interest in the school boy's life, so there are rules and regulations to which a boy must comply before he is allowed to participate in the activities. The home is the first place of co-operation, and in order that the parents may understand fully the program, printed cards are sent out to the parents of all the boys interested, with the following statement: "The program of athletics in the city grammar schools is carried on for the purposes of developing the boy physically, making him better able to handle his body, instilling in him clean habits of health, teaching him team play and co-operation, making him more interested in his studies, and developing a greater and more loyal school spirit." This card bears on it the result of a physical examination which has been given by a Greenville physician, and has a place for the signature of the parent giving permission for the boy to participate in the program. Each boy is required to make a grade of 78 per cent or more in scholarship each week and for the season before being allowed to play. This percentage is above the passing grade. If a boy fails one week he is not allowed to play until his grade is back to the requirement.

Each boy is given a complete physical examination. This fall a number of boys were turned down by the physicians because of some physical insufficiency. The parents of these boys were all consulted and proper methods of treatment advised.

School letters and certificates of athletic participation are given boys and girls who make a certain number of points in the meets, or play in a certain percentage of the games. At the end of the season a banquet is given all "lettermen" by the Rotary Committee, and the boys are given the letters, awarded the certificates and the cups are presented. This banquet is at the Y. M. C. A. and is a most enjoyable affair. A similar banquet is given the girls by the Business Women's Club of the Y. W. C. A.

This fall the football series is being played in the City Park, on a field well laid off and fitted up. Over one hundred boys are playing football, every one up in his studies, declared physically fit by a physician, and coached by men interested in boys and who teach them clean athletics. Although the association does not specialize in making star athletes, yet in embryonic form one may see boys who in future years are bound to make names in the college athletic niches of the South, and the experience they are getting in the grammar school athletic program is serving them well.

Greenville should be proud of her grammar school athletics, and the boys deserve the merit, interest and support of all who are interested in things in Greenville!

THE AUTO TAGS

Few projects will bring to Greenville as much good advertising as the one which the Chamber of Commerce now is completing in making it possible for all motorists of the city to have a plate bearing the name of Greenville and the fact that this city is the Textile Center of the South prominently displayed on the front of his car.

Many Greenville people who have had occasion to make trips out over the state and into other states have carried the plates on the radiators of their cars with pride, and have placed the name of this fair city before the eyes of thousands in this way. One man, who now is on a motor trip to his former home in Minnesota, remarked at the chamber offices that he felt sure the tag would be worth twenty-five dollars to him, or more, in view of the fact that the privilege of displaying it on his car while making the trip was almost invaluable to him. Another Greenville man, Wesley Lawton, is taking his tag on his return trip to China.

WHILE HE WAS IDLE

The stranger in New York gazed at the magnificent hotel. "A remarkable building," he commented.

"Waal, yes; and I may say, sir, that I helped to build it," said the guide. "One day while working about 500 feet up I slipped. Even now I can hear the shrieks of the people below. I thought my last hour had come, when my trousers caught in a friendly nail. The position was dangerous, and it was an hour before I was rescued.

"When pay day came along I found that my money was short, so I went to the cashier, 'See here,' I said, 'my pay's short this week. How's that?' 'Oh,' he replied, 'they's docked you for the time you were hanging on that nail.'"

Home Beautiful

A Well-kept Lawn with its mass of flowering shrubs and evergreens around the house foundation not only enhances the value, but is pleasing to the eye, is cheerful and inviting and gives character to your home.

A mansion on a barren soil is never inviting, while a cottage in a setting of trees, grass and flowering shrubbery will command the respect of every passer-by.

A rich, well drained soil with abundant supplies of lime and humus is essential in maintaining a good green sod for residence, parks or golf courses.

In the South we seem to fail to keep a Blue Grass sod—we fail because we do not lime freely and keep our lawns and parks sufficiently limed to keep our soil sweet. With our average rainfall and sunshine we have no legitimate excuse for not having beautiful surroundings.

Where we find the most shade, soot and smoke there is lawn making the most difficult. In and around our cities and manufacturing plants where so much coal is burned, quantities of sulphuric acid, the result of sulphur in the smoke, is washed into our soils by every rain. The Experiment Station of the University of Tennessee found that the equivalent of more than 100 lbs, of this acid per acre are brought down yearly in Knoxville, Tennessee.

Liming corrects this acidity and also helps eliminate weeds by making grass and white clover thrive.

Fertilize freely and rely on limestone to keep your soil sweet.

Top dress with Mascot Special lawn and garden limestone—it is not caustic, will not injure foliage, is finely pulverized and readily available.

For preparation, seeding, fertilization and care of your lawn, consult your seedsman—your nurseryman.

ANNUAL REPORT NUMBER

GAS ELECTRICITY STREET RAILWAY SERVICE

Consider Greenville as it is and then picture Greenville as it would be without utility service.

How much of a factor has utility service been in the remarkable development of this community during the past few years?

How would it effect you individually—your comfort, your convenience, your financial interest, the value of your real estate, if these services, or any of them, were removed or if they suffered serious deterioration?

The live, growing community and the live, prosperous utility go hand in hand. The dead community and the dead or dragging utility also go hand in hand.

The street railway service, the gas service and the electric light and power service in Greenville will not suffer by comparison with similar utility service in any city in America. You can help to keep the service of your utilities at a high standard by giving them your interested sympathy and your good will and co-operation.

THE FUNCTIONS OF THE ENGINEER

Correct Plant Design Should PRECEDE Correct Operating Methods

Then-- and only then--can maximum economy of operation be attained

Improvements may be made to any existing plant at any time—methods may be bettered, but maximum economy of industrial plant operation, whatever its character may be, will not and cannot be accomplished unless the entire plant has been planned and designed for the work it is to do, and unless due allowance has been made in the original planning to provide for future improvements.

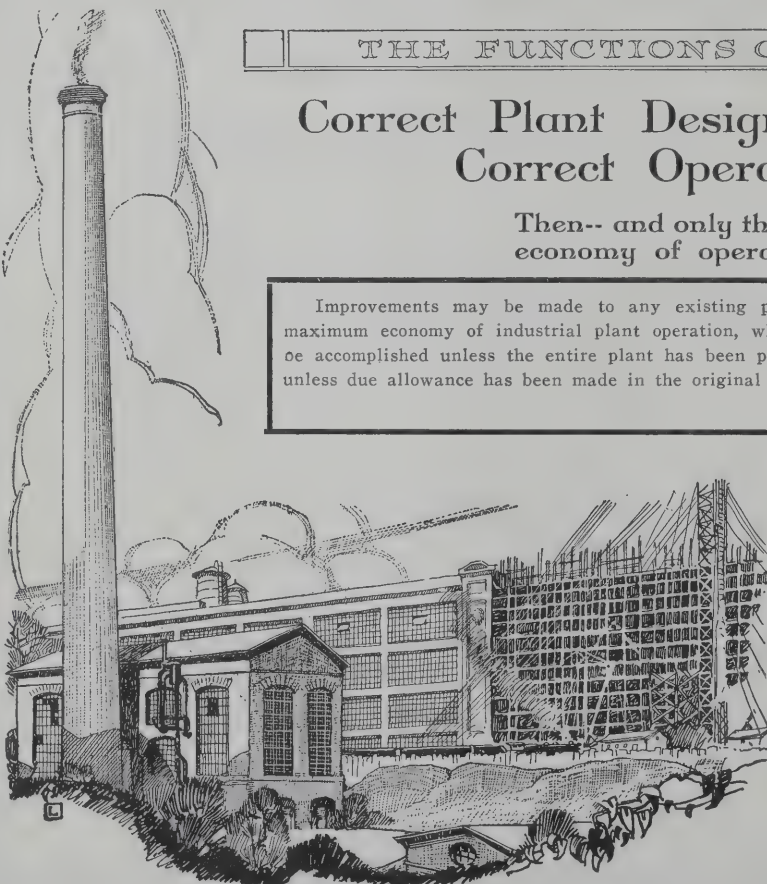

The biggest investments in economy are those made in the service of the skilled and experienced Engineers whose relatively brief assistance will assuredly bring cumulative returns out of all proportion to the fee involved. Correct initial plans and designs are investments in economy—investments that will pay dividends not for one year alone, but for periods of years that will not infrequently extend beyond the second or third generation.

Now, when there is time for careful study, have your plans and designs made for future construction or extension.

Another Milestone

President Russell Thanks Officers and Membership for Staunch Support
And Wholehearted Co-operation During His Administration.

AS the time draws near for the turning of another page in the history of the Greenville Chamber of Commerce and for our annual meeting when about 1,500 of our leading citizens will gather in celebration of this event, I wish in this short statement, to thank the Board of Directors and for them the officers, committees and members of the organization for their splendid co-operation and generous support during the administration which will close on November 2nd.

The Greenville Chamber of Commerce has completed a year of service with a justifiable feeling of pride in its accomplishments and this is due entirely to the individual responsibility which has been shared by the membership.

The annual report of the organization, covering somewhat in detail, a record of the work done by committees too numerous to mention and found in the following pages will speak for itself and I ask your careful consideration of same and your suggestions to my successor and his associates in framing the program of work for the future.

I have a feeling that the year before us holds much in store for the "Textile Center of the South" and it behooves every member to stand squarely back of the 1922-23 administration and to do his or her part in taking advantage of the opportunities before us.

ANNUAL REPORT

Board of Directors and Committees

TO THE MEMBERSHIP:

So many of the members have occupied important places on committees which have worked on the many projects undertaken during the past year that it will be impossible to mention all their names in the short space allotted to this report.

Your president, therefore, with the help of the two vice-presidents, Executive Committee, Executive Secretary and the various department heads, have compiled the more important accomplishments of these committees and present them to the membership in the following pages.

John A. Russell, President
Holmes B. Springs, 1st Vice-President
Edwin Howard, 2nd Vice-President
John W. Arrington, Executive Committeeman
Fred W. Symmes, Executive Committeeman
J. W. Kirkpatrick, Executive Committeeman
C. B. Martin, Executive Committeeman
Wm. R. Timmons, Executive Secretary.

GENERAL

Membership

Due to the activity of the membership committee and of the recent intensive one day solicitation among recent arrivals and other non-members the Greenville Chamber of Commerce is today the largest organization of its kind in the two Carolinas or Georgia. Including the Junior Bureau and the Womans Bureau the membership now totals 1504.

A membership cup was offered to the man who during the year would secure from day to day the largest number of new members. This loving cup was won by W. B. Cox and presented to him at a recent meeting of the Open Forum.

Early in the year, a very attractive membership sign was secured for each member and forwarded to those in good standing. The sign has proved very popular and makes its appearance immediately on the member's desk or in his home. As payments due November 1st are made, the little attachment containing the year "1923" will be mailed to each member and attached to the bottom of the sign.

Meetings

The various departments have held meetings practically every week during the year and therefore very few general meetings of the entire membership have been necessary. At the semi-annual meeting, held in Cleveland Hall and largely attended, Colvin B. Brown, chief of the organization service Bureau of the United States Chamber of Commerce, delivered a splendid address and reports were made by the chairman of the more important committees.

Board meetings have averaged almost two per month and the executive committee has met much oftener when necessary. Committees of different kinds have met continuously, sometimes several at one time in different parts of the Building.

Finance

All matters of finance are handled by the Board of Directors on the report or recommendation of the executive committee which makes a careful survey of the budgets as proposed by the departments. Attention is called to the financial report which shows that the organization is keeping well within the appropriations made by the Board at the beginning of each six months term; also to the fact that on November 1st the cash balance in the treasury was more than $750.00 in excess of the balance on November 1st, 1921.

Organization

As is usually the case the Board of Directors forms the managing body of the organization and is responsible to the membership. Only such powers as may be delegated to committees or department heads may be exercised by them.

The staff at headquarters now, in addition to the Executive secretary, consists of a publicity secretary, an office secretary and a book-keeper—all of whom are expert typists or stenographers.

The Junior Bureau, the Womans Bureau and the Traffic Bureau are all functioning most efficiently and each has its own secretary with an assistant in the traffic department.

Extension Work

The organization stands in readiness at all times to assist in the formation of chambers of commerce in smaller communities in the Piedmont Section. During the year organization assistance was given to several nearby live towns through committees or representatives appointed by the president.

Co-operation

Greenville and the Chamber of Commerce is especially fortunate in having three luncheon clubs, the Rotary, Kiwanis and Civitan, and it is believed that every member of these clubs is a member of the Chamber of Commerce. In fact it is conceded by local and national officers of these organizations that one of its members cannot be true to the ideals of the clubs unless he shows by active co-operation through the Chamber of Commerce that he is interested in the big united effort for progress which cannot be made except through such an organization. A Lions Club has recently been formed also and has assured the Chamber of its wholehearted support. These clubs from time to time are able to assist greatly in special entertainment programs or otherwise, and always through the development of boosters and builders of a greater Greenville and the "Greenville Spirit" among their individual members.

The American Legion, Red Cross, and Community Service are assisted in the splendid work undertaken by them, and lend their cooperation to the Chamber of Commerce at all times. The Board of Directors recently gave the Legion permanent use of the auditorium for their monthly meetings and the hall is also used by practically every organization in the city, sometimes several times during the day.

Newspapers

The remark is often heard that the two newspapers of Greenville are the most progressive in the South. Both the editor of the Greenville News and the editor of The Piedmont, with their efficient editorial and reportorial staffs have shown at all times a sincere desire to help in every way with the projects undertaken by the organization. Grateful acknowledgment of their assistance and cooperation is made here, since in the opinion of the officers the effectiveness of the Chamber of Commerce is greatly enhanced by the progressive trend of the local press.

AGRICULTURAL

Held Conferences

In agricultural matters, the Chamber of Commerce does not work solely from the standpoint of the city "planter" or the real "farmer" but has through the membership of the Agricultural Bureau the benefit of all angles. There are approximately sixty business men who early in the year designated their deep interest in the agricultural progress of the county and these men together with five farmers from each township in the county (making a total of sixty business men and eighty farmers) assemble once each month except during the busiest seasons on the farm, and after a lunch usually as the guests of the banks, merchants, fertilizers, automobile dealers or otherwise, devote their attention to the agricultural problems which are most interesting at the time.

At various of these meetings addresses have been heard from such agricultural experts as W. W. Long, Andrew M. Soule, A. F. Conradi, and other speakers including Ex-Congressman A. F. Lever, L. D. Jennings, R. F. Hamer, and others.

County Fair

Much time and work has been devoted to the Greenville County Fair, the organization believing that this is one of the most important agencies for the dissemination of useful knowledge and education to the people of the city as well as the farmers. The fair this year bids fair to eclipse last year's initial effort and much credit will be due to the merchants and other members of the Chamber who have cooperated so consistently.

Creamery

Through much agitation and with the cooperation of the county agent whose report for the past twelve months may be found on another page of this publication, many speakers were brought to Greenville to address the business men and farmers. So much interest was aroused that a prominent dairyman of the county established a creamery and though, if the number of cows continue to increase in the same proportion, much additional equipment will be necessary, the situation is much relieved.

Diversification

Much influence has been brought to bear by the members of the agricultural bureau in each township among their friends in the county looking toward a diversification of crops. The organization has been preaching this doctrine without realizing how very important it would be but now that the lower section of the state has so decidedly "come to grief" because they did not two or three years ago heed this advice, it is felt that our farmers and business men will really prepare themselves for the boll-weevil conditions which all experts predict for 1923 and 1924. The substance of the doctrine is "DO NOT QUIT PLANTING COTTON BUT REDUCE ACREAGE AND CULTIVATE INTENSIVELY, GIVING MORE AND MORE ATTENTION TO COVER CROPS AND FOOD-STUFFS."

Flour Mill

Efforts of the agricultural committees to bring about the erection of an up-to-date flour mill have so far proved unsuccessful, but recently two gentlemen from Charleston have practically promised to establish one and if this does not come to pass, it is believed that the agricultural committees about to be appointed will not be satisfied until this much needed enterprise is secured.

Co-operative Marketing

The organization has done a number of definite and constructive things for the successful organization in Greenville county of the local branch of the Co-operative Marketing Association. First, the matter was discussed and endorsed at the monthly meetings; then the Chamber endorsed a much needed loan for $1,000 simultaneously with similar action by some twelve or more counties in the state; third, a fine barbecue was given to the people of the county and city who were interested in hearing in detail the many plans of the co-operative association. This barbecue was given at the county fair grounds and was attended by almost a thousand people.

Cotton Market

So much complaint was made, whether justly or otherwise, as to the difference in the price of cotton on the Greenville market and elsewhere that the Chamber of Commerce, both for the benefit of the Cotton men and the farmers, brought about the establishment near the close of last year of a central cotton platform where all the cotton buyers and farmers were invited to come together and conveniently conduct their negotiations for the sale of cotton. As a direct result of this, Greenville immediately gained a reputation as the best cotton market in the upper section of the state, and over 10,000 bales were bought at the platform by the various cotton buyers during the short cotton season.

MUNICIPAL AND PUBLIC AFFAIRS

Civics, or Municipal and Public Affairs, covers a broad field indeed and we include here all such matters as concern the health, morals, and "general good" of the community which have been given any particular attention.

Park Bond Issue

Only recently was the required number of signatures among property owners secured whereby an election may be called to vote $110,000.00 for additional parks and boulevards. These signatures were not so hard to get but more than twelve months was occupied in getting them for the reason that so many signers had to be secured and it was so difficult to get in touch with the signer during the latter part of the campaign when so many were out of the city on business or pleasure. The election will be held at an early date and every member is urged to do his duty.

FRED SYMMES
President, Municipal and Public Affairs Bureau.

J. RION McKISSICK
President, Agricultural Bureau

Pageant—Keowee Trail

With the co-operation of Community Service and almost every other organization and town, city and county in Upper South Carolina, a Pageant was produced early in the year which has advertised Greenville tremendously and which did much to bring the people together and cultivate in them a sense of individual and united civic responsibility.

Junior Bureau

The organization of the Junior Bureau of the Chamber of Commerce has brought about a remarkable development of the young manhood of Greenville which is felt on every side. Full report of their activities will be found elsewhere.

Educational

In addition to co-operating with the authorities of Furman University in the successful effort to induce Pres. W. J. McGlothlin to remain in Greenville as head of this institution of which all Greenvillians are proud, the organization has this year accomplished more in an educational way locally than ever before. Besides the completion of the Furman Gymnasium Fund by the Junior Bureau, a most cordial relationship has existed with the local colleges. Greenville Woman's College has loaned the city splendid talent, both musically and otherwise from among her faculty and Student body, and the people of Greenville have stood squarely behind these institutions both morally and financially.

The most important step, however, in an educational way has been the development of a public sentiment resulting in the voluntary expansion of the educational system in the mill sections and the contemplated consolidation of a large number of school districts into one with one or more modern first-class high schools, and the contemplated extension of the Greenville city school district to include practically everything else in the entire township. Both these matters are progressing rapidly and are among the most important steps of the entire year.

City Planning and Zoning

Experts along the line of zoning and city planning have been brought to the city from time to time, but as yet no definite progress can be reported. It is hoped that before the coming year is ended some definite steps may be taken in this direction. John Nolan was one of the speakers who appeared before the Civics department to discuss this subject.

General Information Bureau

Located in the absolute geographical centre of the city, the Chamber of Commerce has become a veritable gravitating point for all information seekers. Sometimes the staff wonders if anybody can get married without first inquiring at the Chamber of Commerce about a marriage license. We cheerfully pass out any kind of information desired, however, and endeavor to send all inquirers on their way rejoicing unless they are tourists and we can get them to stay longer.

Community Fund

Probably the most far-reaching project of this department during the year was the conception of a plan which has been used in other cities of course but which was new and untried here whereby all charitable and philanthropic organizations in the city could be financed at one time and in one campaign instead of having a big campaign every month and sometimes much oftener. The chairman called the various interested parties from the different organizations together and after a dozen or more meetings a plan was adopted which has resulted most satisfactorily. All worthy causes are now adequately financed and there hasn't been a campaign or "drive" since.

Waterworks Bond Issue

Endorsement was given to the Waterworks bonds which will enable the enlargement of the system and the successful operation of the fire apparatus in one or two sections where pressure was not sufficient before. Some doubt is expressed even yet as to whether the system will be sufficient to take care of the city's growth for the next twenty years and both city officials and the Chamber of Commerce will study the matter further.

Library

The Library was assisted by the officials of the Civics bureau in giving publicity to the successful demonstration of what a library means to Greenville. The Library is now under the jurisdiction of the City Government having been voted an appropriation recently more or less adequate to its further development.

Rest Room

This department maintains quarters and pays a part of the incidental expenses of the City Rest Room, located on the second floor of the Chamber of Commerce Building. City Council co-operates in this splendid work financially and a glance at the annual report of the matron, printed herewith, will indicate the extent to which it is used by both city and county women.

Landing Field

The Landing Field which was maintained last year by the Chamber of Commerce is no longer available, but the Landing Field Committee is co-operating with the County Fair Association in the preparation of an even better one on the association's property on the Laurens Road.

Committee of One Hundred

This name was given to a committee which was appointed early in the year for the purpose of making a thorough study of the laxity of the criminal law methods now existent in the State. Due to the difficulty experienced in getting a chairman competent and willing to serve, however, the committee remains inactive. It is probable that the committee will be continued by the incoming administration as public sentiment favors an active investigation by the group.

Convict Camp Removed

At the request of the Chamber, the County authorities gladly removed from the Spartanburg or Camp road the County Convict Camp, which has for many years been an eye-sore to travelers, due to the natural dislike for seeing fellowbeings suffer and because the Camp was most unattractive, situated as it was, just across the road from the County Tubercular Hospital.

Purchased Street Decorations

With the cooperation of the City and of Textile Hall, the Chamber of Commerce last month purchased a full supply of Street decorations and will thus not be called upon to pay several hundred dollars rent on every occasion when it seems appropriate. These decorations would be practically worthless, however, were it not for the splendid offer of W. B. Ellis, manager of the Southern Public Utilities Company, to have his force put up these decorations as many as four times a year without cost. Acknowledgment is made of this public spirited service.

North Main Extension

At the request of several property owners in the vicinity of North Main Street, a committee was recently appointed to receive subscriptions and apply to Council for aid in putting in a twenty-eight foot fill beyond the terminus of North Main Street and extending to Hillcrest Drive, making a beautiful drive and eventually to go on through to the concrete national highway. This committee was successful in its efforts and very soon it is expected that the construction of the new road will begin.

Glee Club

The Chamber of Commerce Glee Club functioned all the year except in mid-summer and plans are now being made by the officers of the club to resume their concerts.

PUBLICITY AND CONVENTIONS

Publicity

A few of the many accomplishments of the Chamber in a publicity way during the year will be listed here. It is impossible to cover them all as practically every act of every committee and of every member of the staff is productive of some publicity for the city.

B. H. PEACE
President of Publicity and Conventions bureau.

The publicity department has printed for distribution, including the Magazine, about eighteen pieces of literature. With the hundreds of miscellaneous inquiries coming to the office daily no effort has been made to keep up with the letters which have been sent out telling outsiders about the advantages of living in Greenville. A very successful plan was devised in following up many of these prospects by which various members wrote personal letters to inquirers, thus impressing them with the "Greenville Spirit" and in many instances resulting in a new and worth-while citizen.

Missionary Work

The chairman of the publicity department and many other members have made it a point when away from Greenville at the New York Automobile Show, at various expositions and conventions, or on any business or pleasure, to see that as much favorable publicity was secured for their city as possible. Automobile tags containing the slogan "Textile Center of the South" have been continually sold to members and citizens for use on automobiles and letters have been received by the office in regard to the plan as far North as Providence, R. I., some criticizing the slogan and other congratulatory.

Bankhead Convention

More continuous publicity is being received as a result of the Bankhead Conventions for 1923, secured by a special committee from the organization who journeyed to Phoenix last April, than from any other similar source except the Textile Expositions.

Basket Ball Tournament

The organization invested several hundred dollars in arrangements for the Southern Textile Basket Ball Tournament and it is believed that the publicity secured through the occasion is especially desirable since if this association can be induced to hold these tournaments in Greenville permanently, it will only emphasize more thoroughly the truth of our claim to being the Textile Center of the South.

Home-Coming Week

Co-incident with the County Fair last November a Home-coming Week was held which brought many old Greenville residents back to the city for a visit, some of them from the far West.

Open House Week

With the slogan "Know your city better" an Open House week was conducted. Little success was attained, though the idea is good. Weather conditions and a too brief period of preparation and advertising conspired to make the affair much less successful than those who suggested it expected.

Printed Matter

During the year, the publicity department has printed for distribution, including the Magazine, about eighteen pieces of literature. With the hundreds of miscellaneous inquiries coming to the office daily no effort has been made to keep up with the letters which have been sent out telling outsiders about the advantages of living in Greenville. A very successful plan was devised in following up many of these prospects by which various members wrote personal letters to inquirers, thus impressing them with the "Greenville Spirit" and in many instances resulting in a new and worth-while citizen.

Resort Season

Advertisement of special rates for the first time by the railroads indicates the rapidity with which this department is putting before the country the delights of Greenville's summers. Although primarily commercial and industrial and cultural, Greenville's reputation as a health and summer resort is growing very fast. D. W. Griffith is making investigations along this line with a view of building a motion picture studio but although several groups of pictures made by Mitchell's studio covering the entire section have been forwarded him by the publicity department, nothing definite has been heard.

Motion Pictures

Through an especially liberal financial arrangement with W. P. Dowling, one of Greenville's photographers, moving pictures were made last summer of many Greenville scenes and are now being shown in cities and towns of North and South Carolina visited by the one hundred and twenty-five citizens who made the "Acquaintance Tour" last summer.

Newspapers and Magazines

Much time and effort in expended by the publicity department in preparing material for publication in newspapers and magazines of the country. Articles have been sent to many periodicals, including Commerce and Finance, a very influential commercial paper of New York City and to Dunn's International Review, which is published in a number of languages and is circulated all over the world.

Post Office Die Stamp

Through the efforts of this department, with the cooperation of the Post Master and the president of Textile Hall, Greenville's Textile Exposition was advertised this year for the first time by having the dates and location of the Exposition imprinted on every letter and other piece of mail which passed through the local post office, except that originating elsewhere.

A Convention City

A partial list of the conventions held in Greenville during the past year and in the entertainment of most of which, the Chamber co-operated, is given to indicate the extent to which the committees on automobiles, general entertainment, etc., have been kept busy; further, to illustrate the increasing popularity of Greenville as a Convention City.

Many other fraternal orders held conventions here but were able to take care of all entertainment without having committees appointed by the Convention department.

Some of the Conventions so far secured for 1923 are State American Legion, South Carolina Retail Merchants Association; Pharmaceutical Association of North and South Carolina; South Carolina Cotton Manufacturers Association; Southeastern Pure Food Show; Bankhead Highway Association; United States Good Roads Association and Show; etc.

INDUSTRIAL

A kind of unwritten law has been adopted by the Chamber of Commerce whereby it is impossible for the organization to formally appoint committees for the purpose of selling stock to the public, no matter how splendid an enterprise might be established. The reason for this is that no matter how sure a group of men may be that a given manufacturing plant is to succeed, it is possible for bad management to creep in and most of the public if they lose money will blame the Chamber for "selling them worthless stock." However, the industrial committees very often thoroughly investigate a proposed industry and if it is apparently sound, give the benefit of their opinion to those who may be approached by individuals or citizen committees selling the stock. The Board of Directors can of course make exceptions to this rule but have seldom done so, though officials of the organization have helped several concerns during the past year when it seemed for the best interest of the future of Greenville to do so. The industries noted in this report have largely come to Greenville without the direct assistance of the Chamber but as a result of the natural and remarkable industrial development of the city the Industrial committees record these with no idea of claiming honor but more as a history of the industrial progress of the Textile Center of the South.

MILTON G. SMITH
President Industrial Bureau.

New Textile Plants

The location in Greenville of the Southern branch of the Franklin Process Company under the name Southern-Franklin Process Company was probably of more far-reaching importance than of any Textile Plant established with the help of the Industrial Bureau during the year. This plant is meeting with splendid success with its processes for dying all grades of material and is predestined to enjoy a continuation of this success.

Norris Brothers have increased the size of their plant for manufacturing shuttles and shuttle-blocks.

The Shambow Shuttle Company has established a Southern plant for manufacturing this popular textile product.

Announcement has recently been made of a new addition to Judson Mill which will greatly increase the production of that plant.

Announcement has also been made of the erection of a very large bleachery but up to the present time lacks positive verification.

Other Industries

The Peerless Folding Ladder Company was able through the influence of the Industrial Department to sell sufficient additional stock to begin production and now is facing a very promising future. These ladders fold into a remarkably compact package and are for the home as well as commercial and industrial uses.

The Southern Sash and Door Factory purchased a site from the Minter Homes Company, a fabricated house building factory established through the work of the Industrial committees under the administration of ex-president J. W. Arrington, and are producing in large quantities sash, doors, and other accessories.

The Southern Draft Regulator Company manufactures a patented draft regulator, attachable to any hotel or factory smoke stack or chimney and saves by consuming smoke and gases from 15 to 25 per cent on fuel.

The U. S. Parfay Company has established a plant for the manufacture of Parfay syrup for distribution in several Southern States.

Vocational School

Through the efforts of the American Legion and the Industrial department a Federal Vocation Training School has been established at Chick Springs near the city and at present several hundred ex-service men from various sections of the south are here in training for different vocations.

Industrial School

Through the influence and hard work of John Wren, assisted financially by the cotton mills, a school for Textile Workers has been established on land donated by Brandon Mill. Under the plan in operation textile workers are in the mills one week and in school the next. Plans are under way for a $30,000.00 plant which will be under construction in a short time.

Hotels

After almost two years of hard work, propaganda and correspondence by the Hotel Committee of the Chamber sufficient sentiment was aroused to bring about the erection of one new hotel and two additions to the Imperial and Ottaray. The Imperial addition is under construction at present and the other two projects are expected to break ground at once, Greenville has suffered on account of lack of hotel accommodations and it is believed that with all the additional rooms, it will not be long before the city will require even more hotels.

Building

In addition to the 17 story Woodside Building which will be completed about Christmas and the hotels, Greenville has enjoyed a building boom for the past year second to none in the State.

A new $80,000 gymnasium at Furman University has been under construction for several months and ought to be completed before January 1st.

A new Fine Arts Building at Greenville Womans College, said by educators to be the finest of its kind in the South, will be completely finished by December 1st.

The building record among residential and store property owners has been almost phenomenal. More than a dozen stores on Main Street have been completely overhauled and remodeled; six or seven very large new buildings have been erected for automobile distributing agencies and other businesses; and new residences have gone up in all parts of the city and suburbs too numerous to record. During the past five years too the local contractors and engineers have made an enviable record on work done in the South, more than sixty-nine millions dollars ($69,000,000) worth of work having been done by Greenville Engineering, Architectural and Construction concerns.

Periodical Retained

It was largely through the efforts of the Industrial department that the Baptist Courier, a weekly church periodical with a large circulation throughout the state, was persuaded to remain in Greenville instead of moving to Columbia, the official headquarters of the denomination in South Carolina.

Branch Offices

One of the most important phases of the work of the Industrial Committees has been that of trying to locate the many branches of Northern Textile Machinery concerns and other branch offices in Greenville instead of other Southern cities where these concerns formerly located their branches if they had them. Among the many Southern or sectional offices established during the past year are those of the Oakley Chemical Company, McClave-Brooks Company and others.

Employment Bureau

In cooperation with the American Legion, an employment bureau was established at the time when the employment situation was at its worst and succeeded in locating jobs for a large number of ex-service men. Plans are now under contemplation for helping the general out-of-work citizen, by printing each month in the Journal the qualifications of certain applicants who present themselves at the Chamber from day to day, although the general employment situation is much improved over six months ago.

BOOSTER BUREAU

The Open Forum

Almost everybody in the Chamber of Commerce requests to be identified with this department of the organization because of the open forum feature, which makes it possible at the meetings held on the fourth Saturday of every month for any man who wants to make a suggestion for the good of the city or of the Chamber to be heard. The meetings last only one hour and the last twenty minutes are always given over to this feature. Such men as the governor, the director general of the United States Good Roads Association and many others have been on the programs during the year and the programs are prepared by the program committees with a view to pleasure and entertainment as well as profit.

Entertain Teachers

At one of the meetings of the Booster Bureau, the teachers of the city schools were entertained at luncheon. The Bureau plans to entertain them again within the next month or two.

Classification Talks

Several times during the year, talks were heard from members of certain lines of business or professions, such as Doctors, Traveling Salesmen, Large Manufacturers, College Presidents, and Professors most of them Greenville men.

Acquaintance Tour

One of the most important projects launched by this department through the open forum in 1922 was the Acquaintance Tour which was most successfully conducted after it had been approved by the Board of Directors. The trip was made in pullmans and one hundred and twenty-five men including a band, male quartette, orators and "big boys" made a most delightful tour of the larger cities in Virginia and North and South Carolina. Much inspiration we gained and it is believed that much benefit accrued to the cities visited by the exchange of ideas and fellowship.

Postal Improvement

Co-operation has been extended to the Post Master in the matter of improving the postal service and at present Greenville has probably the best delivery and postal service in its history.

Criticism and Praise

This Bureau is the "valve", so to speak, of the organization. If any member has a good word he wants to say for any movement or public utility, he "speaks his mind" here. Many such matters as mileage books, gasoline prices, ice costs, and the price of gas and coal have been frankly and fairly discussed in the open forum. The body, however, has no power to put the organization on record for or against any question and can only recommend to the Board of Directors. It is worth while to say in passing, however, that Greenville utilities have always lent an open ear to any suggestions and have always either agreed to correct the alleged abuse of their privileges or have tried to prove that there was no basis for the contention.

Automobile Ride to Summer School

This department does for the organization many things that would otherwise be very hard of accomplishment. As an instance, during the month of July, a motion was made that the Bureau furnish automobiles for a ride to Paris Mountain and about the city for the students and teachers in attendance at Furman University Summer School. The motion quickly carried and sufficient cars were immediately offered to do the job in perfect style.

GOOD ROADS

Information Bureau

Never does a day pass that does not witness the application of from ten to twenty tourists or others for road information. Unfortunately, it is hard to get in and out of Greenville without minute direction and the fact that the Chamber of Commerce is located on the ground floor in the exact centre of the city brings an unusually large number of strangers for various kinds of road directions. A regular member of the staff is in charge of this work and is well prepared to answer practically any question.

Road Maps

With the financial help of the Publicity Budget, more than a thousand Rand-McNally road maps were purchased early in the year and have been widely distributed both among the membership and tourists. This map contains all the Southern States and is full of valuable information including the state highway routes of each state.

ROBERT I. WOODSIDE
President, Booster Bureau.

F. F. BEATTIE
President, Good Roads Bureau.

Bankhead Route

Much interest has been manifested in the Bankhead National Highway, due to the fact that Greenville is the city chosen for the next convention of the association to be held next April. Several meetings have been held and plans are under way to bring about at the convention a revival of the road enthusiasm which made Greenville County the pioneer good roads county in the state. The Bankhead Highway crosses two other important highways here,—the Dixie Highway and the Piedmont Highway. The National Highway is practically the same in Greenville County as the Bankhead, though this is not the case elsewhere and it does not discount the value of having the Bankhead and National one and same here.

Hard-surface Program

The Chamber of Commerce indorsed the program of hard-surface roads in South Carolina following a good roads address during the year by R. Goodwin Rhett. The program was not carried through at the last meeting of the Legislature, but in spite of this fact the Good Roads Department of the Chamber has adopted as a program for next year the hard-surfacing at least of the road from Mauldin to Travelers Rest and as much more on the Bankhead Highway between Greenville and Spartanburg as possible.

Road Signs

The Chamber of Commerce caused to be erected 100 neat signs between Columbia and Clinton and between Asheville and Flat Rock, advertising the road via Greenville (Piedmont Highway) as being the safest and shortest route between the mountains and the sea. The result of this work which was done with the cooperation of the live towns of Clinton and Laurens has been to greatly increase the travel over the highway. No check has been kept of this increase here, but information to this effect has been gained through filling stations and other business houses in Clinton.

Roads signs, welcoming the tourists to Greenville have also been erected on the outskirts of the city

Brevard Acquaintance Trip

At the urgent invitation of the progressive citizens of Brevard, North Carolina, the Chamber of Commerce sent a large delegation of members to that mountain resort during the past summer for the purpose of becoming better acquainted, and for the purpose of strengthening the ties of friendship and business affiliations, looking toward the very much closer relationship which would be brought about by the building of the Brevard or Transylvania Highway across the mountains. The trip was a delightful one and unusually successful in accomplishing the purposes for which it was made.

New Mountain Highway

The outstanding work of the Good Roads Department during the year was the successful campaign which was waged throughout the city and the other communities and countryside and with the County Delegation to have the Legislature appropriate a sufficient amount to be used with a similar amount from the Federal Government for the purpose of constructing a modern topsoil highway across the mountains to Brevard, the county seat of Transylvania County, North Carolina. It was practically a full year's work as about the time everything was all right in one place, everything would go wrong somewhere else. Finally, however, the Federal Government approved the plans and the Highway Commission, backed up by the solid front of Greenville County's Senator and representatives, asked for bids on the work. Even then, however, the trouble was not over, and public-spirited citizens and property owners had to raise an additional $20,000 over and above the proceeds of the bonds.

RETAIL BUREAU

The Retail Merchants Bureau is one of the most active divisions of the Chamber of Commerce, and is ready at all times to do whatever is for the best civic and commercial interest of the city.

Cotton Platform

This group who were largely responsible for the erection of the cotton platform and the resulting high cotton market, have assisted in the maintenance of the platform during the entire year and paid most of the salary of an expert cotton grader and buyer at the platform. Greenville, as a result has been made probably the best cotton market in the state.

Advertising Committee

During the year $21,000 has been saved to the members of the Bureau through the services of the secret advertising committee which passes favorably or unfavorably on every advertising scheme which is presented to the merchants. This amount compares very favorably indeed with $12,500 saved last year.

G. HEYWARD MAHON, JR.
President Retail Merchants Bureau

Bad Checks

Much improvement was brought about in the condition resulting from the pernicious practice of passing bad checks on the merchants. This was done by calling the attention of each merchant to the names of persons repeatedly guilty of this practice and by agitation for better legislation to prevent it.

Advertising Methods

Discussions of advertising methods and salesmanship were engaged in at many of the luncheons which are held monthly, with much good consequent to this membership, especially the salesmen.

Sales Events

Two very cooperative Dollar Days were conducted and two trade weeks. In connection with the former, a trip was made all over the county and circulars distributed, which together with the newspaper advertising and the space devoted to the event by the newspapers in "readers" so widely advertised it as to bring more people to the city than any similar occasion in the past.

1923 State Meeting

At the invitation of the Retail Bureau the State Retail Association decided at its last meeting to hold its 1923 convention in Greenville.

Decorations

A special committee from the Bureau recently took up with the individual merchants the matter of purchasing store front decorations instead of renting them on the many occasions when appropriate and necessary, with the result that about thirty-five firms are now prepared to decorate on the shortest notice.

Clean-up Week

The Bureau co-operated with the Woman's Bureau and the city health department in the annual spring clean-up which was staged last spring.

More Trades Events Planned

Two Dollar Days and one trades week are now being planned by the Bureau. The Dollar Days will be held, one in February and the other in August of 1923, while the Trades Week will be held in connection with the County Fair, November 7th to 11th, 1922.

WHOLESALE BUREAU

Greenville boasts more wholesale concerns than any city in the state, unless it is Charleston, and nowhere can more progressive or public-spirited wholesalers be found. Meetings of the bureau are held on the first Thursday night after the 15th of every month, and practically nothing is permitted to conflict with this engagement.

credit information as may be desired by its members.

Organized Piedmont Credit Bureau

As a direct result of the work of the bureau, there has been organized the Piedmont Credit and Adjustment Bureau which has saved thousands of dollars, not only to the wholesalers of Greenville but of many other cities in the Piedmont section and of their customers as well. This saving is accomplished by a careful and sympathetic handling of such credit matters as come within its jurisdiction and by giving such

Supported Good Movements

The Bureau at its monthly meetings, besides entertaining from time to time the salesmen of the various firms, discusses such important matters as discounts, credits, salesmanship, extension of trade territory. It also takes action, indorsing or otherwise the various projects which are before the community. Endorsement was given the Brevard Highway, the Cotton Market Platform, etc.

Annual Picnic

For three years now, the Bureau has entertained its customers in upper South Carolina at a big barbecue in some convenient location near the city. This year the picnic was held at Stones Lake and 1800 people were in attendance, voting the affair the most successful of the three years' entertainments.

Pure Food Show

Plans are now under way for the holding of a Pure Food Show under the auspices of the Bureau. The show will be managed by the President of Textile Hall and will be known as the Southeastern Pure Food Show, and efforts are being made to make it the largest and best show of its kind ever held in the South. The show will be held in April, 1923.

AUTOMOTIVE TRADES BUREAU

The Automotive Trades Bureau, like the Retail and Wholesale departments is more or less of a service bureau and considers to a large extent only those matters which look to the betterment of business conditions among the automobile distributing agencies, gasoline concerns, and garages. The members, however discuss many other matters which are for the interest of their customers, such as roads, traffic problems, etc.

Used Cars

This subject has been an active one for some time, the dealers making an effort to arrive at some plan which will permit them to give all that a second-hand car is worth, without losing money on the transaction due to the flooded condition of the second-hand car market.

State Convention

O. P. MILLS
President Automotive Trades Bureau.

The dealers of South Carolina were entertained at the 1922 convention which was held in Greenville, many of them saying that the convention was the most successful one held in several years.

Meetings

Meetings of the Bureau are held monthly and usually in addition to the business matters and discussion, the program committee endeavors to get a speaker qualified to help the local dealers in the solution of the various problems confronting them.

BUILDERS BUREAU

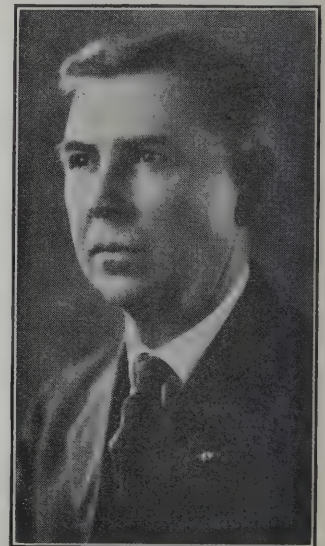

On March 15th., the Builders Bureau was organized and considering the fact that it has been so recently organized has made a very important place for itself among the contractors, material dealers, architects, and engineers.

Builders Exchange

Much difficulty has been experienced so far in deciding whether to let the Bureau perform the functions of a builders exchange or to encourage the organization of an exchange in addition. This matter is before the Board of directors or executive committee and will no doubt be decided upon in a few months.

Fellowship

So far the greatest good accomplished by the bureau has been in getting together the members of the building fraternity once each month, naturally resulting in better acquaintanceship and good feeling. Some of the members did not know

Annual Report of The Junior Bureau

In glancing over the past twelve months in which the Junior Bureau has functioned during its first year as an organization and as an integral part of the

RICHARD W. ARRINGTON
President Junior Bureau.

Chamber of Commerce two facts which stand out in the review are first, the wonderful co-operation and assistance which has been tendered the retiring administration by the entire membership and, second, the very successful and satisfactory results which characterized every project undertaken.

Although only a year old, the Bureau has firmly established itself as a permanent institution of Greenville and even as this first year of unusual accomplishments is closing plans are already being laid for another banner year by the incoming administration.

The most important activities of the bureau during the past year are recorded here:

MEMBERSHIP: A splendid membership has been built up by the membership committee and at present the enrollment reaches 217—all full-blooded young Greenville boosters.

MEETINGS: Once each month a general meeting-banquet was held affording an excellent opportunity for fellowship, new friends and a general get-together affair. Prominent speakers of Greenville and of South Carolina accepted invitations to make addresses at such meetings including Dr. W. J. McGlothlin, Dr. D. W. Daniel, Dr. H. N. Snyder, and others.

BUSINESS COURSES: An unusually successful class in Public Speaking was organized and completed under the direction of Professor W. H. Coleman, of Furman University. More than thirty members were awarded certificates at the close of the six weeks course which was pronounced by some as the most successful and most popular class of its kind ever held in Greenville. The class will begin its 1922 term at an early date and indications point to a another successful term.

A course in advertising and salesmanship presented by some of the most successful business men of Greenville was also taken advantage of by a good many Juniors. This class as well as a class in Business law are also being planned for this winter.

FURMAN GYM CAMPAIGN: Through the efforts of the bureau additional subscriptions to the Furman Gymnasium amounting to $20,000 were raised and work on the gymnasium was actually begun as a result of the campaign which was splendidly and systematically handled by the entire membership.

The Junior Follies was presented at the Grand Opera House on the final night of the campaign, the proceeds being given to the campaign fund.

BAND ORGANIZED: On June 15th the bureau fathered the organization of a concert band and under the direction of Charles W. Goforth, regular band concerts have been given at the City Park on Sunday Afternoons during the Summer months and early fall. The band is composed of 28 pieces and every concert has been well attended and greatly enjoyed by the people of Greenville.

CONVENTIONS: The bureau was active in the entertainment of several conventions held in Greenville during the year and assisted the senior organization in the entertainment of many large conventions also.

The Home-Coming banquet tendered the boosters composing the Carolina Virginia Acquaintance Tour, given under the direction of the bureau assisted by the Kiwanis, Rotary and Civitan Clubs, was a pronounced success in every way and was very much enjoyed by everyone present.

Fifty girls from Sumter, S. C., camping on Paris Mountain, were entertained by the bureau on the last day of their stay in Greenville by an automobile ride around the city and a visit to one of the large cotton mills.

The visiting delegates to the State Convention of the South Carolina Nurse's Association were given a delightful automobile ride over the city.

PUBLICITY: Grateful acknowledgment is made here of the valuable assistance given the bureau in every undertaking by the Newspapers of Greenville which has been a very potent factor in every activity.

One page of the Greenville Journal, has been given the bureau by the Editorial Council and is used to the best advantage each month.

A monthly letter written by the publicity committee and mailed to each member has been recently started and promises to become very popular with the boys.

Annual Report of The Woman's Bureau

MEMBERSHIP: The Woman's Bureau has increased its membership to over two hundred and thirty. The majority of this number have paid the required dues.

MRS. M. P. GRIDLEY
President, Woman's Bureau.

During the past year the following things have been accomplished:

CIRCULAR PARKS OF COURT SQUARE: Have been improved and turned over to the Park and Tree Commission to be kept in good condition.

PARK BOND ISSUE: The Women, in in the face of rain and sleet, secured over 1,000 names for the bond issue for Parks and Boulevards.

$792.00 FOR THE U. S. VETERANS' HOSPITAL: The Bureau secured money for the Christmas boxes to be given the boys of U. S. Hospital No. 26. Many towns of the South helped with this splendid work, and $792.00 was secured, and gave cheer to nearly 500 patients. On holidays, the members of the Bureau send truck loads of cut flowers to these boys. Many bulbs and shrubs have been given for the grounds. The Bureau was instrumental in getting several of the Sunday Schools of the City to improve many of the Recreational Rooms of the Wards.

AID SEVENTY-FIVE FAMILIES OF EX-SERVICE MEN was the work of the Clubs of the City through the direction of the Women's Bureau.

RIDES TO VISITORS or conventions in our midst, are given by members of the Bureau.

ICE CARDS for the convenience of housewives, have been gotten through the efforts of the Bureau.

IMPROVEMENT OF COUNTY REST ROOM is one of the best pieces of work that the Bureau has done,—the change in the room is wonderful. The dingy walls were painted ivory. Curtains, dishes, and silver have been bought. A splendid $125.00 drinking fountain has been donated, a gas stove bought, and many minor things done.

A CLEAN-UP CAMPAIGN was put on in April. In the first meeting were representatives from the City Health Department, Fire Department, Wholesale Merchants, Retail Merchants, housewives, and ministers. Everyone co-operated.

THE CURB MARKET has been under the direction of the Bureau for the past year, and according to producers and consumers, it is a pronounced success. Many days there will be a hundred or more cars on the Market. Inquiries of plans of the Market are being received from all parts of the United States.

MEMORIAL HIGHWAY: To beautify one of the Highways leading out of the City, as a Memorial to the boys of the late War, was begun by the Bureau in the early spring. Several unavoidable things occurred which caused many of the trees to die, but one of the men of Greenville, knowing why the trees died, has promised to replace them free of charge. The play "The Microbe of Love" was staged for a few dollars to aid with future plans of the Memorial. Over $100.00 was realized from the play, in the face of the Textile Exposition, dances, parties, rain, etc.

TOURISTS' CAMP: One of the best Tourists' Camp in the South is in the making. The City Fathers are giving time and money to the plans. The early spring will find the Camp in splendid condition. The Recreational Room will be fitted with tables, chairs, lights, water, and gas. Much advertising material will be sent to the tourists' of Florida during the winter, and the Bureau hopes to have a full camp of visitors in Greenville for several of the spring months.

THE WOMAN'S DEPARTMENT OF COUNTY FAIR is in the hands of the Bureau. Five hundred dollars are being offered in prizes, in the departments of Canned Goods, Fancy Work, Floral, and Fine Arts. This last department is being added this year, in the hopes that a better love of Art can be begun. Many calls are being received for entry blanks.

SCOTCH HIGHLANDERS BAND will be at the Textile Hall on November 6th. under the direction of the Bureau. The profits will be used to aid with the Tourists' Camp.

"THE CREPE MYRTLE CITY OF THE SOUTH" is the Bureau's dream for Greenville for the coming fall. The plan is to have a Landscape gardener to plant as many trees as may be wanted by the property owner, for the small price of $1.00 per tree, and guarantee that they grow. After the first mention of this idea, L. P. Hollis placed an order with the Bureau for 200 trees. Everyone is praising this plan.

EVERY MEETING DIFFERENT: The Bureau is becoming famed for the varied programs that are

Annual Report Traffic Bureau

Guy B. Foster, President.

Geo. W. Clapp, Traffic Manager.

The Traffic Bureau of the Chamber of Commerce has made a start during the past year in bringing many traffic adjustments which will work to the best interests of the business men and manufacturers of Greenville as well as the railroads themselves.

GUY B. FOSTER
President, Traffic Bureau.

Many Overcharges Collected.

About April 15th the Bureau elected with the approval of the executive committee of the Chamber of Commerce, G. W. Clapp as traffic manager and since that time the bureau has adjusted 528 overcharge claims for shippers in the city. These claims amounted to more than $6,000 which has been repaid to these shippers by the railroads, and at present 145 claims are outstanding on which will probably be collected $1,800.00. This work has been done by the traffic manager with the help of the assistant manager J. L. Davis, who serves the Bureau without salary, in view of the training he is receiving under the Federal Vocational System of the Government, having received several wounds in the World War.

Secured Reductions in Rates.

The Bureau secured an average of 12 1-2 per cent reduction on sixteen different commodities which are used by every citizen of the city, including building material, food-stuffs, and paper.

Pullman Service to Atlanta.

The re-instatement of the Atlanta Pullman was granted by the Southern Railway after the Bureau had promised cooperation in popularizing this much needed service. It is now thought that this car will be a permanent institution as the traveling realize that the only way to keep it is to use it.

Important Conferences.

Committees have been sent to Atlanta, Asheville and various other points as well as to the South Carolina Railway Commission's headquarters in Columbia on a number of occasions for the purpose of conferring on the question of rates and inequalities existing from Greenville's standpoint. On one item alone,—gasoline from Fort Worth, Texas to the road plant of a member of the bureau a saving of 34 cents per hundred pounds was affected.

Freight Revision Pending

At the present time, the Bureau is handling with the Interstate Commerce Commission a revision of all freight rates to Greenville which will mean a saving of from $150,000 to $200,000 to local shippers. With the cooperation of all shippers it is the intention of the Bureau to help make Greenville the distributing point of the two Carolinas.

Southern Textile Exposition was planned and directed by the bureau, together with the Welcome Committee of the Textile Exposition.

COMMUNITY FUND: A canvass of the business districts in connection with the Community Fund Drive was put over in such a fine manner by members of the bureau that Mr. John Holmes, chairman, declared that it was the best piece of work of its kind he had ever seen accomplished.

JUNIOR BUREAU DAYS: The Booster Bureau of the Chamber of Commerce at one of their regular monthly luncheons, designated the luncheon as Junior Bureau Day, and speakers from the bureau made short talks largely making up the program of the day.

Junior Bureau Day was also observed at Manly Field Saturday, November 28th, when, at the kind invitation of Dr. W. J. McGlothlin, of Furman University more than two hundred members of the bureau attended the Richmond-Furman football game and pulled off a mock game between the halves.

This generous invitation on the part of Furman was deeply appreciated by every member of the bureau and the occasion cemented more closely, perhaps, the friendly spirit existing between the organization and the University.

AGRICULTURAL WORK IN COUNTY

A. H. Chapman, County Agent.

Agricultural conditions in the county are very good. Fair crops are being produced, considering the boll weevil invasion and unfavorable weather conditions. It looks now as if the cotton crop will be around 55 per cent normal. This should give a yield of approximately 26,000 bales. The corn crop was cut considerably by the dry weather but the increased acreage will make up in part for the decreased yield. The oat crop was the best in years. The largest acreage of wheat that we have ever had was harvested, but the yield was greatly reduced by one of the worst outbreaks of rust that we have ever had. The acreage in sweet potatoes is the largest on record and the crop is yielding well.

The farmers are taking more interest in cover crops, small grain and other substitutes for cotton than ever before. They are also planning to put up a strenuous fight on the boll weevil next year by thoroughly cleaving the rubbish from the fields and destroying cotton stalks early this fall.

The interest in the County Agent's work during the year is well illustrated by the fact that during the past nine months when 64 days were spent in the office and 144 in the field 259 farms were visited and 2,658 farmers called at the office for specific advice regarding their farm problems. About 856 phone calls were answered, 1,696 letters were written, 53 meetings were held with a total attendance of 5,380, and 4,827 miles by auto were traveled.

An outstanding feature of the work was the signing up of 3,000 bales in excess of Greenville County's quota in the Cotton Marketing association, the best record of any county in the Piedmont section.

By hard work the farmers were kept from becoming stampeded by the heavy infestation of the boll weevil and practically no cotton was plowed up, the farmers putting up a most strenuous fight against the weevil by picking up the squares and the use of other approved methods. Special attention was given to keeping the farmers from investing in fake remedies.

It is estimated that $10,000 was saved to the farmers of the County on the instruction given in the matter of the kind of poison not to buy, the Agricultural Agent recommending that the farmers of the county were not ready to experiment with various remedies offered. The wisdom of this stand is borne out by the good crop of cotton that is being harvested.

Another important line of work of the Agent is fostering commercial peach orchards. About ten new commercial orchards will be planted this Fall bringing

CREDIT MEN'S ASSOCIATION HAS STEADY GROWTH

J. P. Abernathy, Secy, & Treas.

One of the many evidences of the progressiveness and farsightedness of the business interests of Greenville was the establishment of a credit interchange and adjustment bureau by the wholesalers of this city in the summer of 1921. The need of an organization of this nature had long been felt and in July 1921, through the Wholesale Bureau of the Chamber of Commerce, the Greenville Wholesale Credit Bureau was organized and incorporated with twenty-five local wholesale houses as stockholders and members and offices were opened in the Emaxcee Building. The following November the local association affiliated with the National Association of Credit Men, which has about 33,000 members and the affiliation of 135 credit men's associations throughout the country. The local association is recognized by the National Association as an Association of Credit Men, Credit Interchange Bureau and Adjustment Bureau and affords cooperation and the exchange of information with the membership and various units of the National Association throughout the country.

The usefulness and service of this organization proved to be greater in many respects than at first anticipated and the wholesale interests of Greenwood and Anderson were invited to come into the organization with the result of a representative membership in each city being secured and the changing of the name of the association from the Greenville Wholesale Credit Bureau to the Piedmont Credit & Adjustment Bureau.

The principal functions of the Bureau are outlined briefly as follows:

1. The gathering of credit information for the benefit of its members by securing the actual credit experiences of its members as shown by their books and furnishing these reports in tabulated form to each contributing member. The experiences of wholesalers and manufacturers throughout the country are also secured through the National Association of Credit Men, who have a separate and highly organized department for handling and gathering this information. These reports are frequently supplemented by record information and financial statements.

2. The adjustment of insolvent or embarrassed concerns, these adjustments being frequently handled by the calling together the debtor and creditors and arriving at a mutual understanding of the most economical and beneficial adjustment for all parties concerned. These friendly adjustments have saved many an honest

The Annual Banquet

Address of Willis H. Booth and Election of Officers and Directors Will Feature Mammoth Civic Affair.

On Thursday evening, November 2nd, in Textile Hall, members of the Chamber of Commerce will gather more than a thousand strong to celebrate the 1922 annual banquet and meeting of the organization.

Greenville and the Chamber of Commerce are honored in having as their guest of honor on that occasion, Willis H. Booth, prominent New York Banker and national figure in Chamber of Commerce activities, who will make the principal address of the evening. Mr. Booth will come to Greenville especially for the banquet and his address promises to be a rare treat.

In addition to the address of Mr. Booth, one of the features of the meeting will be the election of officers and directors for the coming year and to review briefly the excellent achievements of the year now closing, under the able administration of the officers and directors who were elected at last year's annual gathering.

The membership, in addition to confirming by unanimous vote the Postal Card nomination of President, will elect two Vice Presidents to succeed Holmes B. Springs and Edwin Howard, and also elect directors to take the place of those whose terms expire on November 2nd. As usual a nominating committee has been selected from among the membership to canvass the situation and to make recommendations at the annual meeting.

W. A. Merritt is chairman of the nominating committee to report on November 2nd and it is rumored that Col. Holmes B. Springs received by a tremendous majority the largest number of votes cast for president in the recent democratic mail ballot. However, Mr. Merritt and his committee, who alone have counted the more than one thousand votes cast, refuse to give any official information to the Journal or to say anything regarding the election until the time for their report arrives.

The annual report of the officers and committees of the Chamber of Commerce is carried in other pages of this magazine together with a classified list of the membership.

As this information is extremely valuable, all members are urged to preserve their copies of this issue for future reference.

The Directors whose terms expire now are: T. M. Marchant, W. T. Adams, J. F. Gallivan, E. M. Blythe, J. N. Watkins, Harold C. Smith, John W. Arrington, J. E. Sirrine, George W. Quick, J. W. Kirkpatrick and Perry Woods.

The following Directors serve for another year, having been elected at last year's annual meeting to serve until November, 1923: W. H. Keith, L. H. Stringer, S. J. Craig, H. C. Harvley, C. B. Martin, B. H. Peace, W. A. Merritt, W. C. Beachman, W. E. Mason and F. W. Graham.

ATTENTION WOMAN'S BUREAU

All members of the Woman's Bureau are asked to pay strict attention to one VERY IMPORTANT matter during the coming year, and that is ANSWER A LETTER FROM THE BUREAU WHEN REQUESTED TO DO SO. The members have no idea the amount of time that is lost and the trouble that is caused in the office because of carelessness to attend to this matter which would take only a few minutes of the members time, but when forty or fifty fail, then it means forty or fifty phone calls from the office.

THE CALL

*"I saw the mountain stand,
Silent, wonderful and grand
Looking out across the land,
When the golden sun was setting
On distant dome and spire,
And I heard a low voice calling
Come up higher, come up higher,
From the lowland and the mire,
From the mist of low desire
From the main pursuit of self
From the attitude of self
Come up higher, come up higher."*

A NEW YEAR

As we step out on the threshold of another year let optimism and courage blaze the way.

The leaders of finance, industry and commerce prevented during 1922 what seemed nothing short of disaster by and through the spirit of optimism that permeated every field of activity. Optimism whatever its foundation, played an important part in safely tiding this great country over the most serious crisis it ever faced. It will likewise continue to be the basic element in restoring normal conditions.

The future must be faced with the utmost courage, confidence and trust in order that real permanency of peace, prosperity and happiness shall abound.

And, turning over the proverbial new leaf of another Chamber of Commerce year, let us also keep before us the old pages upon which is engraved the record of our mistakes and failures. It is only by constant remembrance of such experiences that we are enabled to avoid their repetition.

Greenville's great supremacy in commercial activities encourages us for the future.

A WORD FROM PRESIDENT RUSSELL

As this issue of the magazine goes to press, the undersigned, representing the membership of the Chamber of Commerce, stole into the office of the printing company and bribed the type-setter to put these short paragraphs on the editorial page.

These paragraphs will relate entirely to the untiring and efficient work of the Editorial Council in turning out each month this little Journal which has meant so much in the progress of our city.

This issue is the last which will be edited by the present Council and they are entitled to the thanks and appreciation of the entire membership for the splendid work they have done. Especially do I want to commend the work of L. A. Cothran whose stories from time to time have added much life and vim to the magazine.

I sincerely hope my successor as president will be able to appoint as good an Editorial Council for "Greenville" as the one whose term expires with this issue, but he will have a hard job to find men who will "put out" like the Chairman, John M. Holmes, and the other members of the Council which includes: Henry E. Stradley, J. Rion McKissick, Roger S. Huntington, J. C. Latimer, Wm. F. Robertson, J. E. Brunson, L. A. Cothran, and J. W. Chapman.

(Signed) John A. Russell.

LEADERSHIP

The man who is worthy of being a leader of men will never complain of the stupidity of his helpers, of the ingratitude of mankind, or of the inappreciation of the public. These things are all a part of the great game of life, and to meet them and not go down before them in discouragement and defeat, is the final proof of power.

Fifth Textile Exposition Brilliant Success

Interesting Exhibits, Splendid Attendance And The Creation of Good Will And Excellent Business Prospects Features Mammoth Affair Just Closed.

By Roger C. Peace.

It was with a feeling of regret that the people of Greenville observed the closing on Wednesday, October 25th, of the Fifth Southern Textile Exposition, the dismantling of the exhibits and the exodus of the exhibitors and visitors who had been the principals of the show during the week October 19th—25th.

But what measure of regret was felt was somewhat offset by the feeling that the Exposition was a success in every way and that it will have a stimulating influence upon the continued development of the textile industry in the South. From the standpoint of interesting exhibits, the show was an unparalled success, as it was in the arithmetic of attendance. As a business proposition for the concerns that patronize it we have their word that it surpassed their expectations, not only in the immediate returns but in the prospective business and good-will that have been created. One of the chief benefits of the show, although regarded as a by-product, is the associations that were formed resulting in the interchange of ideas and the inception of lasting friendships.

The growth of the Southern Textile Exposition is an encouraging sign that the textile industry of this section is not yet at its apex. When the exposition was first begun, somewhat in the nature of an experiment, it was not one-tenth the size that it is today nor comparable to the present show in any respect. Year by year the Exposition has grown, the demand for space has increased, the textile workers of the South have attended it in larger numbers and the results have been more satisfactory. This is an infallible indication that the industry has undergone a great improvement, that manufacturers and workers are learning the value of keeping thoroughly in touch with the new equipment and the products of other mills, and that they are profiting by swapping ideas. The Exposition is therefore not only serving as a reflex of textile development in the South but is wielding a constructive hand in that development. We may be sure that each succeeding Exposition will register an equal if not a greater ratio of progress.

Greenville people have enjoyed and profited by the visit of so many distinguished and prominent men and women and relinquishes them unwillingly, trusting that this will not be their last visit to the Textile Center of the South.

FINE PHOTOGRAPHY

The Journal is indebted to two of Greenville's live wire photographers, both members of the Chamber of Commerce for the splendid photographic work appearing in this issue of the magazine.

J. Woodfin Mitchell, of the Mitchell Studios, is responsible for the excellent photographs of the different bureau heads and the scenes illustrating his story of the beautiful scenery of Greenville.

W. P. Dowling, of the Dowling Studios, ventured an aeroplane trip and secured a fine view of the business district of Greenville which is reproduced on the front cover.

This cooperation is indeed appreciated by the Editorial Council of the Journal.

REST ROOM DOING WONDERFUL WORK.

Mrs. E. Y. Hillhouse, Matron.

The annual report of the matron of the Rest Room, which occupies half of the second story of the Chamber of Commerce Building, contains the information that the rest room has been used during the past year by 32,039 people.

Mrs. E. Y. Hillhouse, who works more for love than money, states that she could not conduct the great work which is done under her supervision as matron except for the whole-hearted co-operation of the women of Greenville who have for years been so diligent in helping her to furnish the rooms and care for the 82 to 100 girls and women who visit the rest rooms daily.

The property committee of the Chamber recently paid for remodeling and re-painting the rooms, this work being done under the supervision of a committee from the Woman's Bureau.

In addition to a large number of cots and large comfortable chairs for rest purposes, the rest room contains magazines, newspapers and a very, very small library of books for the recreation of visitors. The only crying need of the rest room at present is steam

Junior Annual Banquet Enjoyable Affair

"Builders for the Future" Hold Joy Night and Hear Masterful Address by Dr. D. W. Daniel.

By Lee H. Welch,
Southeastern Life Ins. Company

The seating capacity of the banquet hall of the Imperial hotel was taxed to the limit Thursday night, October 12th, when the Junior Bureau Chamber of Commerce held its first annual banquet.

As the doors of the dining room opened the Merri-makers Orchestra greeted the guests with snappy well executed selections. L. P. "Pete" Hollis got on the job "instantly" conducting the singing and injected plenty of "pep" into the occasion. In fact the entire meeting was full of "spizzierinktum and pep" from start to finish, there was not a single drag in the entire program. Holmes Allen and President "Dick" Arrington, as toastmasters, proved masters indeed along that line.

Mawry Pearson with his Saxophone quartet from Spartanburg was simply great as an entertainer winning numerous encores from the banqueters.

Practical jokes were paramount throughout the evening the first being pulled when Col. Springs made a very touching appeal for a destitute family, concluding his talk by calling for volunteers willing to subscribe twenty-five dollars to stand up, at this point Mr. W. F. Patrick rose quickly to his feet as tho anxious to be the first to subscribe to a worthy cause. However, Mr. Patrick did not rise through his own volition—being forced to his feet by a current of electricity passing from his chair to a most tender part of his anatomy. It was a good joke cleverly executed and brought forth an uproar from the crowd.

A beauty contest to determine the ugliest man present was the next mirth promoter. Alester G. Furman, Jr., W. E. Beattie, Jr. and W. W. Stover were quickly nominated. As each one was nominated Lester Poole, in regular Bud Fisher style, sketched their portraits on the black board. The committee had a difficult time deciding to whom the prize should go, but by a close margin decided for Mr. W. W. Stover, presenting him with a box of candy supplied by Reynolds & Earle Drug Store.

The business meeting was conducted in quick order with R. W. Arrington presiding. Six new directors were elected to fill vacancies of directors whose terms had expired. Twelve nominations were made as follows: J. L. Plyler, Gilbert Campbell, Dan Cochrane, G. B. Oxner, J. V. Brookshire, R. W. Hudgens, J. D.

Poag, Charles Stribling, Wm. Bozeman, W. P. Conyers, Jr., C. M. Clayton and Nelson Arrington. A secret ballot was taken resulting in the election of: J. L. Plyler, J. V. Brookshire, Nelson Arrington, R. W. Hudgens, J. D. Poag and W. P. Conyers, Jr. These new Directors are to serve for a period of two years.

Mr. Timmons announced the winners of the Slogan contest.

Joe Baxter, first prize, submitted "Builders for the Future". Mr. Baxter was presented with a new fall hat through the courtesy of the J. O. Jones Company. "Builders For The Future" has been adopted as the official slogan for the Bureau. D. W. Cochrane was awarded second prize having submitted "Help Greenville Hustle". An attractive prize furnished by the Ligon Haberdashery was presented to Mr. Cochrane. George Morgan qualified for third honors, winning a prize offered by the Rothschilds store, his selection being "A Bigger, Better Greenville".

Nelson Arrington's membership report was most gratifying. Forty-four new members have been added to the organization. There are now two hundred and sixteen live wire members all ready to help Greenville Hustle as "Builders For the Future" assuring us of a "Bigger, Better Greenville".

The finance report by Alester G. Furman, Jr. showed that the Bureau during its first year has been operated on a safe conservative basis with a comfortable balance on hand to start the new year.

President Arrington reviewed the work of the Bureau for the past year in a splendid address after which Mr. John A. Russell, President of the Chamber of Commerce made a very inspiring short talk in which he stated that the young men of the Junior Bureau must first build themselves before they can become successful builders of Greenville.

The final joke of the evening was pulled off to perfection when "Solicitor" Dakyns B. Stover and Tom LaGrone engaged in a verbal combat in a heated argument as to whether Centre College or Georgia Tech had the most superior team in the South. Mr. LaGrone's remarks became so personal and severe in his criticism

Mail Early During Holiday Season

By Charles C. Withington

With the advent of the Holiday Season a short period hence, it is fitting to invite the Public's attention to the importance of MAILING EARLY and of exercising care in the preparation of their parcels and other mail matter, by proper packing and plainly addressing. To the hearty co-operation of the Public, in response to the nation wide campaign urging early mailing by the Post Office Department, is attributed the success and the vast improvement in the Postal Service of the past Holiday Season of 1921, which was the most successful in the experience of the Department. It is anticipated to make the 1922 season even a greater success, and to reach this aim I wish again to ask your assistance and co-operation in the EARLY MAILING project for the Christmas Season.

C. C. WITHINGTON

By early mailing you prevent a congested condition in the Post Office, and your packages get through to their destinations on time, thus you benefit. Care in the preparation of all matter for mailing should be exercised, as 99 per cent. of all failures, delays, and erroneous deliveries are chargeable to the carelessness of the mailer. Before mailing always examine your package, seeing that it bears your return card, is properly and legibly addressed, and if first class matter, that it is securely sealed and the proper amount of postage has been attached. These precautions will save you annoyance, and in numerous instances will be more profitable than the time expended.

Observation in numerous Post Offices throughout the Country disclosed that in the majority of cases of loss, wrong delivery, and breakage of parcel post shipments was due to careless and improper packing. It is urged upon the mailer the importance

The Picturesque Beauty of Greenville

By J. Woodfin Mitchell

Unfortunately, many people, even many of our own citizens do not realize the scenic beauty of the immediate vicinity of Greenville. This is partially because this picturesque beauty is not on the main highways, and partially on account of our ignorance of just what we really have. We speak of Saluda Dam and think of it as a mill pond or a place where electrical power is developed, but how many of us really know that this is one of the most beautiful lakes in South Carolina, with numerous coves and shady fern lined banks, and at many places more than a mile in width? This beautiful lake is between six and seven miles in length, and has an average depth of twenty feet. To see the sun set from any point on Saluda Lake is to see indescribable beauty unsurpassed in America. One point on Whip-poor-Will Island offers a most magnificent view of sunrise. It is a cove which is shut in by two steep, partially wooded hills with Paris Mountain in the distance filling up the gap and reflecting its beautiful blue in the mirror-like water. In early spring the sunrise is accompanied with all the colors of the spectrum and presents a picture which no artist but Jehovah could paint. Two main roads lead to this lake, the Easley Bridge Road and the Whitehorse Road. Motorists pass under the spillway on the Easley Bridge Road and do not see the lake itself, while the Whitehorse Road crosses five miles higher up on a covered bridge which obscures the view. Already several Greenville citizens have put motor boats and row boats on the lake, and find rowing and motoring a real delight. These waters abound with crappies, bass, and other game fish, and it is seldom that fishermen leave its banks without a good catch.

But while this and other lakes in and around Greenville offer many attractions, we have in nature's bountiful gift many picturesque water falls and scenic mountains.

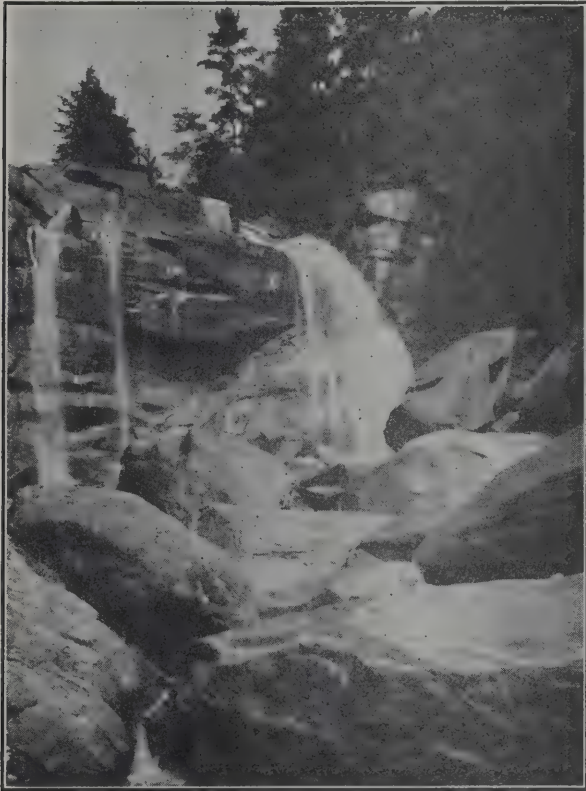

Paris Mountain just at the outskirts of the city with an altitude of several hundred feet, and in the northern part of Greenville County the Great Blue Ridge. Less than three hundred yards from the courthouse is the Camperdown Falls in the Reedy River which flows through the city. Then we have the Conestee Falls at Conestee, but the most magnificent water falls in the entire South are found in the upper part of Oconee County not more than forty miles from Greenville and about twenty miles from Walhalla. These wonderful falls are in the White Water River, and the entire drop lower falls, including the two miles of stream between is over twelve hundred feet. Accurate figures could not be obtained, but it is estimated that the upper fall with its three leaps will total one hundred and ninety feet, while the lower fall is near three hundred feet, with one section a two hundred foot leap. White Water is a very appropriate name for this stream, for from the time it crosses the state line from Jackson County, N. C., it is a series of rapids and falls, and its waters are constantly dashed and churned until it reaches Jocassee Camp five miles below the lower falls, where it changes its name to Keowee River. Until recently this section was almost inaccessible to vehicles, but the opening of Government roads through the forest preserve has enabled lovers of nature to visit these magnificent falls and in profound admiration worship Him who created all things.

Here is shown the upper section of the lower falls which is followed by the final grand leap of two hundred feet to the whirlpool.

The accompanying photographs show sections of the upper and lower falls in the White Water River, it being impossible to photograph the entire lower falls on account of obstructions.

ANNUAL REPORT OF THE WOMAN'S BUREAU

being given to the members each month. For the past year they appear as follows:

November 1921—Plans for the Pageant and the Social Workers Conference and an address by Miss Holbrook of U. S. Veterans' Hospital.

December—Plans for the Park Bond Issue and the improvement of the city. Address by John A. McPherson of the Park and Tree Commission.

January—Report of all the work undertaken for Christmas Cheer.

February—Meeting held at 6:15 P. M., and in the pouring rain. The Auditorium was full of members.

Many business reports were heard after which readings, music, tea, and sandwiches made a splendid social hour.

March—Banquet at Imperial Hotel, with 150 present. This was considered one of the best meetings of the year.

April—This meeting was held on the Highway where the first tree of the Memorial was planted. Col. Alvin Dean made a most impressive address. An Italian Band added much to the occasion.

May—After the reports of the work that was being done, Col. Jas. E. Dedman, of the U. S. Veterans' Hospital, made a splendid address.

June—This meeting brought out 200 of the members. The occasion was a "Stunt Party", and will long be remembered by by everyone.

July—All of the organizations of the City which employ women as secretaries, were invited to this meeting and asked for reports. The members now understand more of the Community Service, Girl's Protective Bureau, Tuberculosis Association, Hopewell Sanatorium, the Travelers' Aid, and the Woman's Bureau.

August—The producers of the Curb Market entertained the Bureau with a most enjoyable fruit feast. The tables were lined with watermelon and cantaloupes.

September—A Radio Concert brought many members to the meeting, and they enjoyed the concert broadcasting by home talent and then listened in on distant cities.

Mrs. M. P. Gridley, President.

Miss Maggie M. Garlington, Secretary.

each other either by sight or name, but now are much better acquainted.

Builders Problems

Several problems have been taken under consideration by the committees but so far little has been accomplished. The problem of the small house which is usually built without any architectural design and which over a period of years makes such an undersirable class of building from the stand-point of civic beauty has been studied carefully, but so far the architects have not been able to suggest the solution of the condition.

Important Future

During the coming year this Bureau is planning many important projects and Greenville is fortunate in having this important class of industry well organized for service to themselves and to the community.

There is sometimes profit in doing a thing well, there is always pleasure.

Keep on looking lucky and you'll find her.

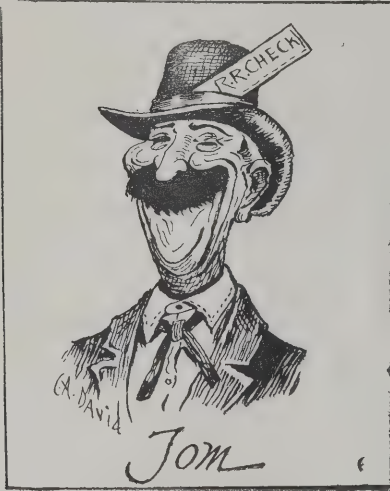

Tom to Jerry (Final Letter)

By L. A. Cothran

Dear Jerry:

Chickaggo Illynoise, Oct. 1.

Wel, Jerry, we air in Chickaggo and I'm dumbd if I kno how we air gointer git ouut, me not knoin the "Ole Faithful" Erupts.

And then we sees the Guysirs! Gentel-men, but they is Vishus! They snawts and bubbels a wile and sudnly rores and spowts and pritty nigh skeert I and Marthy to deth. We gits to Ole Faithful In and they is a big

I had to walk down and arange with the cluck who seys "they is a frait ellyvater wick yu ken use" and after that we rode that afrait ellyvater along with the help and the soilt linnen.

Marthy Rebels.

In Mister De Lukkeses rume they is a card wick Marthy fines wick seys "Gests dinin in the Mane Dinin Rume is required to ware Evenin Close after ate o'clockt "and when she seen it she went plum up in the air and had a dubbel duck fitt. AGRICULTURAL WORK IN COUNTY (Continued from page 18) the total number of such orchards in Greenville County up to fifteen.

In the opinion of the Agent, the Agricultural Bureau of the Chamber of Commerce which cooperates at all times is one of the best organizations to help bring about the necessary and desired results in the Agricultural problems which face the farmer at the present time. This Bureau has done splendid work and by enabling the farmers and business men to put their heads together in solving the problems in Agriculture, much progress will be made.

"The race of mankind would perish did they cease to aid each other. We cannot exist without mutual help. All, therefore, that need aid have a right to ask it of their fellow men; and no one who has the power of granting can refuse it without guilt."

"Y" In Close Touch With Public Schools

Excellent Program of Activities Arranged for Grammar and High Schools of City.

By George Mackey

In its relationship to the public schools of the city the local Young Men's Christian Association has a very happy touch, for with the approval of the board of trustees, co-operation of Dr. Mann, and the principals of the different schools, and sponsored by the local Rotary Club, there is conducted a program of athletics and club activities superior to any similar program among schools in the South.

Grammar school athletics is controlled by the Grammar School Athletic Association, composed of all the principals with the Y. M. C. A. physical director and city boys work director. Activities for boys consist of football league, basket ball league, baseball league, with each school putting a representative team in the field. A Thanksgiving relay of two miles, indoor athletic meet, outdoor field meet and swimming meet, are special events conducted for the boys during the season. This program keeps a special sport activity before the boys for the whole nine months.

Activities for girls, conducted by the same authorities, consist of a basket ball league, indoor track meet and outdoor field meet. Cups are awarded the schools for winning in the different sports, these cups being donated by different business organizations in the city. Each boy and each girl who participates in the majority of the games activities is given a school letter and certificate denoting the successful participation. These cups, letters and certificates are annually awarded at the "Letter Banquet" which is held at the Y. M. C. A. for the boys, and the Y. W. C. A. for the girls, given to the athletics by the Rotary Club and the Business Women's Club, respectively.

Every boy entering into any sport conducted by the association undergoes a thorough physical examination, given by a corps of Greenville physicians; he must make a scholarship grade of 78 per cent., or three points above passing requirements; and he must have the written permission of his parents to the effect that he may engage in the activities.

In the high school, the school football, basket ball and track teams are coached by Y. M. C. A. secretaries, while grade basket ball leagues are conducted for both boys and girls, indoor track meets held for both boys and girls, and an outdoor swimming meet for boys and girls also conducted. All the indoor activities for grammar schools and high school are held in the gymnasium of the Young Men's Christian Assn.

Realizing that these activities only reach a small part of the student bodies of the schools, an informal program of recess play has been started at several of the schools with the developing of interest. The high school boys and girls are playing field hockey. Oaklawn boys and girls have tried out volley ball, and other schools are following their example.

In Club activities each grammar school has its "Three C" club, composed of boys who have banded themselves together under the code of clean thoughts, clean sports, clean living. Bi-monthly meetings of these clubs are held, and programs of varied activities are always conducted. Last year each boy was given an interview by a business man of the city, on some phase of life problem.

In the high school the Junior and Senior Hi Y clubs meet weekly for supper at the Y. M. C. A., one hundred boys being lined up in this activity for high school boys. The purpose of the Hi Y club is to develop a high standard of Christian living among the high schools of the country, and the local clubs are affiliated with the national organization. The clubs hold separate meetings after having supper together.

Some interesting figures in regard to the activities of the various groups are given below:

Number boys participating in grammar school athletics for last year were 750; number of girls 320; number of spectators 4,000.

Number boys participating in high school athletics activities were 125; number girls 60.

Number boys in grammar school "Three C" clubs were 287; number boys in Hi Y clubs 100.

It is to be hoped that in time the program of athletics and club activities may be extended so as to include the grammar schools of the county.

heat and additional books and the matron and others interested in the continued success have expressed the hope that it will not be long before these needs are supplied, as the number of tourists passing through Greenville as well as the girls and women of the city and county are increasing each year and should be furnished the very best service available.

man from failure and result to the advantage of both debtor and creditors. Other forms of adjustments handled are assignments, trusteeships, receiverships, compromises, extentions, etc. This phase of the Bureau's work is an important one and quite a number of cases have been handled.

3. The collection of accounts for wholesalers and manufacturers.

4. The promotion of cooperation and better understanding between the retail and wholesale merchants.

5. The encouragement of a higher standard of merchandising by assistance to merchants in their business affairs, when desired, and endeavoring to the retail business as a whole.

6. Interest and effort in behalf of legislation, legal and other matters productive of sound business methods having to do with the promotion and protection of business.

The fact that this organization is filling a recognized and fundamental need in the business life of this section together with the interest and cooperation of its entire membership of thirty-four wholesalers and manufacturers, is the cause of its past success and its assurance of continued useful service.

Mr. Perry Woods has served as President of the Bureau since its organization and the Board of Directors for the past year were W. K. Livingston, J. I. Rose, Perry Woods, A. H. Monteith and T. F. McDow. The present Directors are Perry Woods, S. C. Templeton, M. H. Smith, L. Reid Jackson and F. K. Spratt.

of proper packing, the endorsement of the nature of the contents, etc. I therefore advance a few suggestions which may save you time, expense, and disappointment. PACK CAREFULLY.

TIE SECURELY.

Think of the miles it has to travel rubbing against other parcels, handled and rehandled.

ADDRESS PLAINLY.

PLACE RETURN ADDRESS IN UPPER LEFT HAND CORNER.

ENDORSE CONTENTS AS "FRAGILE" or "PERISHABLE".

INSURE ARTICLES OF VALUE.

MAIL EARLY AND OFTEN BEFORE CHRISTMAS.

When in doubt as to the proper mode of packing, or if you desire to be informed as to any ruling relating to the parcel post system, inquiry should be made of Clerk at the parcel post window, who will gladly instruct you as to your desires. Bear in mind that the Post Office of your City is a community institution, that you owe to it your constant support and co-operation, and that your constructive suggestions are solicited.

Will you not help us to make the Mail Service for the Holiday Season, such that it will be referred to as more than a success?

of the Solicitor's judgment that Mr. Stover made a dash at him as though to settle the argument by physical force.

At this crucial moment, however, when everyone present waited in tense silence, several mighty reports sounded from beneath the table where the "stunt committee" had cleverly hidden electrically controlled explosives. As the smoke cleared away everyone realized that the argument was only a joke very cleverly handled.

Dr. D. W. Daniel of Clemson College in a wonderful flow of oratory replete with jokes and humor of the highest type brought the meeting to a close in an address that will long be remembered by the Junior Bureau. Dr. Daniel outlined the main qualifications necessary for each individual of the Junior Bureau in order to become a "Builder For The Future". The necessary qualities as set forth by Dr. Daniel were Hope, Courage, Loyalty, Unselfishness and High Ideals. We should all carry Dr. Daniel's parting thought with us "What Might I Do If I do My Best for Greenville and Myself".

Those who were not present at the annual banquet missed a great opportunity for pleasure and profit.

LITTLE SERVICE, PLEASE!

Most business enterprises are conducted to make money for the producer instead of to save money for the buyer, says Fred Kelly in The Nation's Business. What a hit a producer can make when he works partly with the buyer's point of view in mind! What an advantage he has over his competitors who consider only themselves!

Life, youth and energy can push you to the one-yard line but you must yourself across the goal.

A BIT OF PHILOSOPHY

A famous hotel man, who is also a philosopher, once made a remark that would apply to almost any business.

"The greatest mistake," he declared, "that is commonly made by employees and managers is to exert themselves more for the comfort of an old-time customer than for a new one. According to all rules of hospitality and logic, the person who should receive the most effort for his entertainment within one's doors is the newcomer. In your own home you would not think of making a great fuss over a man who had been entertained there before, and more or less ignore another fellow who is receiving your hospitality for the first time. Yet in a hotel dining-room the head waiter is most careful to seat the man whom he has seen there before, and in most stores the clerks make more fuss over an old customer than one who is giving the store a first trial."—The Nation's Business.

What About Examiners?

WHEN you name an individual Executor of your will, no Bank Examiners call on him for the purpose of examining into his accounts with your estate.

A National Bank, however, is visited frequently and regularly by National Bank Examiners, who are intelligent and prying fellows. Records must be clear and they have to be shown in matters pertaining to your estate.

The South's Growth has been Our Growth

WE are proud in looking over our records of past and present achievements to identify our organization with the growth of the industrial South.

The rapid strides made by the South during the last 42 years, in its principal industry, point to it as the future textile center of the World; and in the anticipation, planning and construction of many of these Southern enterprises, it has been our privilege to participate.

In 1880 the South used 12% of cotton consumed by American mills, in 1922 it used 63%.

This amazing change in location of such an enormous activity has demanded great business acumen and constructive genius. That it has not been lacking is evident from this record.

We have been able to assist in securing proper locations for industrial sites; in building small and large factories of all types; in laying out and in constructing industrial towns, with individual homes and apartments, schools, theatres, Y. M. C. A.'s and office buildings; and harnessing rivers to both small and large hydro-electric plants furnishing power to single factories, to groups of factories with their villages of operatives, or to whole districts.

THE FUNCTIONS

OF THE ENGINEER

A Word of Caution to Home Builders

Homes built even a few years ago require additional wiring and changes in the wiring before they are able to avail themselves to the fullest of the advantages, comforts, and blessings of electric service; and additional piping before they are able to utilize cheap, convenient gas for between seasons heating.

Hundreds of homes being built today are going to have to be re-wired or re-piped within the next few years in order to make them modern and to enable their occupants to use to the fullest extent electric and gas service for the various purposes for which these services will be desired. Many of the homes that are being built in Greenville today are being inadequately wired for electric service and inadequately piped for gas, even as these services are being used today.

The new home builder or home purchaser cannot afford to overlook the matter of convenience outlets for electric appliances and gas connections for heating purposes in bath room, living room, and one bed room as well as in kitchen and basement.

Annual Report of the Executive Committee of The Board of Directors

YOUR executive committee has the honor to present herewith the annual report of the activities of the Chamber of Commerce. Owing to the limitations of space, the vast ramifications, the varied scope of the work and the many contacts of the organization, it will be possible in this report to touch only upon the high lights of the past year's accomplishments and activities.

The executive committee takes pride in presenting this report for your consideration, and in offering this evidence of the accomplishments of your organization, desires to express herein its appreciation of the splendid, loyal, spirit of co-operation which has been shown by the membership generally in lending their assistance to important projects fostered by the Chamber of Commerce. It is through the efforts, the loyalty, the fine spirit of progressive co-operation of the members, individually and collectively, that the committee is able to report that during the past year the organization has proven itself an indispensable adjunct to the community life, the civic progress and the welfare of the city and section as a whole.

Your committee feels that the Chamber of Commerce deserves the generous support of every citizen who has the weal of Greenville and the great Piedmont section of South Carolina at heart. In this connection your committee would emphasize the fact that the organization is non-political, non-partisan, non-personal in the sense that it seeks no personal aggrandizement for any of its members, but works only for the common good of the whole city and section.

The Chamber of Commerce functions (a) thru its president and executive secretary; (b) through the board of directors; (c) through its executive committee; (d) through thirteen closely knit, departments or bureaus; (e) through various committees of the organization as a whole, or special committees appointed by the board.

This plan of organization and operation has been in practice for several years, and has proven highly satisfactory. The board of directors, in addition to its regular membership, includes the heads of each of the thirteen bureaus, the president of the Chamber of Commerce, and the two vice presidents. The President of the Chamber of Commerce is chairman of the board. A glance at the roster of your board of directors will be enough to prove that the leading citizens of Greenville are taking an active part in the work of the organization, and are directing its affairs. However, the committee wishes also to stress the fact that the board of directors does not do all that is done by the organization; a large majority of the membership has done its share of the work accomplished during the year; without the full and complete co-operation of all members, the organization could not function on an efficient basis.

The executive committee wishes also to take this occasion to repeat that the Chamber of Commerce which is democratic in the truest sense of the word, seeks the prosperity and progress of every citizen of Greenville endeavoring to assure to every man woman and child an equal opportunity to prosperity and happiness. It has no so-called "cliques" which have killed so many organizations in other cities of the country and it stands for the progress and advancement of the whole citizenship.

TWENTY-ONE MAJOR PROJECTS

Among other important projects which the organization has fostered and carried to a successful issue during the past year might be mentioned;

(1) The perfection of plans for financing and erecting a handsome ten story office building as the permanent home of the Chamber of Commerce, (the actual start on this building is being delayed until the South Carolina Supreme Court passes on the validity of the lease granted by the General As-

A Personal Message From the Retiring President

WITH the closing of my term of office as your President, I desire to express my personal thanks and appreciation to the Officers, the Office Executive and Assistants, the Board of Directors, the Bureau Heads, all Committees and to the membership generally, for their untiring efforts, support and co-operation given the work during the administration now closing.

The Annual Report of the organization and the record of the work accomplished, including that of the Bureaus and Committees, will be found elsewhere in this issue of the magazine. I ask that you carefully read this report, that you may familiarize yourself with what has been done.

We have felt privileged to give a conscientious service to a great commonwealth of fine people, who never lose sight of a reverence for the traditions of the past, but work constructively with a broad vision for the future. We have not only worked for the financial, commercial and industrial welfare of the city, but we have tried to develop the fundamental features of a well balanced city, socially, morally, spiritually and otherwise.

If we have accomplished anything worthwhile, it is with pleasure that I give the credit to those who have done so much to contribute to our efforts to serve. Especially does this apply to the Office Executives and Assistants, to the Officers and Directors, and Committees, all of whom have so faithfully served during the administration.

The rapid growth of Greenville is known throughout the country and is the pride of our people. The city has just begun to grow. Its future can only be what we make it. Your continued co-operation is therefore necessary, and I earnestly solicit it for the incoming administration. We look with hopeful optimism and faith assured in the future growth of Greenville. With the broad-minded vision and untiring energy, the liberal and unselfish contributions of our people, coupled with our many resources and that fine spirit of community co-operation which is our greatest asset, we believe that the future of the city is the brightest in all its history.

It has been a distinct privilege and pleasure for me to serve the Chamber of Commerce as its President. I shall always cherish with most pleasant memories the honor conferred upon me, and I feel that I am repaid for my efforts by reason of the happy associations formed during my administration.

HOLMES B. SPRINGS.

This issue of the magazine, being the annual number, containing the reports of the Chamber of Commerce and all of its bureaus, the regular departments devoted to the activities of the Woman's Bureau and the Junior Bureau have been left out, because the reports of these bureaus are contained in the general report.

Next month's issue of the magazine will contain the revised list of officers and directors of the organizations, and of all Bureaus.

It is expected that the State Supreme Court will hear the case involving the validity of the lease granted by the General Assembly to the Chamber of Commerce of the plot of ground upon which it is proposed to erect a modern ten story office building as the permanent home of the Chamber of Commerce. Every member of the organization, of course, hopes that the decision will be favorable to the organization.

LOOKING AHEAD

With the beginning of its new fiscal year, the Chamber of Commerce points with pride to the accomplishments of the last year, and looks ahead with confidence to Anno Domini, 1924!

The organization has prospered in the years that have passed since its organization, because it has fulfilled its mission of unselfish service to this community; its officers and members expect still greater things from the organization in 1924, because the habit of unselfish service is one that grows, and widens and fixes itself upon the consciousness of individuals and communities. The habit of unselfish service is the elixir of youth, which, imbibed by the individual, benefits the individual and the community. If we may further adapt our figure of speech, we would say that the Chamber of Commerce is the chemist that mixes the ingredients, and sends the magic tonic pulsating through the arteries of the body politic; it is the distributing machinery through which the energy, the enthusiasm, the civic pride and ambition of its more than fifteen hundred members is directed to the tasks which make for the commercial, social and spiritual up-building of Greenville.

The Chamber of Commerce succeeds in its mission because every member has assumed personal responsibility for his share in the work of community betterment, is strong because its members shoulder that responsibility, put aside personal considerations and give of their time and energy to doing things for Greenville. Its individual members, acting as members of a bureau or committee of the Chamber of Commerce accomplish things in the name of the whole membership. The Chamber of Commerce is just what its members make it; no more and no less; no stronger and no weaker.

Therefore, in 1924, the Chamber of Commerce will succeed in whatever it may undertake for the good of Greenville in the same ratio in which each individual member of the organization will practice the habit of unselfish service.

Each member of the Chamber of Commerce, by joining with other citizens of Greenville in membership in the organization, has signified his or her desire to do something for the good of Greenville; to help his community, his fellow man. The organization represents the organized efforts of the fifteen hundred men and women who form its membership; it carries certain privileges, and certain responsibilities. The privilege is to serve; the responsibility is also to serve. It is individual no less than cooperate; it is yours and mine and our neighbors, independently and interdependently.

Will you do your share in 1924?

OUR FINANCIAL REPORT

The Executive committee calls attention to the fact that the organization has a slightly larger cash balance on hand this year than last in spite of the many extra demands, due to big publicity program and large conventions entertained. The complete report on audit made by M. Palm and Company, is printed herewith as a supplement of the Journal.

"INFORMATION PLEASE"

By L. A. Cothran

"You'd be surprised to know how many and various enquiries and problems come into the Chamber of Commerce office every day" said Secretary Bill Timmons to the Magazine Reporter who invaded the sacred precincts at Headquarters last week. "Folks seem to think we are a clearing house for troubles, complaints and information and if you would like a sample just stick around a while and listen" he added, while President Springs nodded assent.

Just at that moment the telephone rang. It was Fred Symmes calling. "Say, you fellows," he shouted, his voice trembling with excitement and indignation, "Nelse Poe is trying to pay his subscription to the hotel in German Marks—what must I do?" "Refer him to Fox Beattie" Timmons advised.

There was a knock at the door and Henry Mills walked in. "How do you tell poisonous mushrooms from the regular kind?" he asked anxiously. "Eat 'em" suggested Col. Springs. "If they kill you they're poisonous."

Again the 'phone rang and a lady wanted to know if they could tell her who collected old coins in the city. Timmons and Springs exchanged broad grins. "Bill Beacham" they cried in unison, "old ones and new ones, too."

Milton Smith calls and wants to know if the cotton market is going up or down. Pop Marchant is consulted immediately. He listens carefully and delivers himself of the following: "Tell him some say it is going up, others say it is going down. I think so too. He should act quickly—whatever he does will be wrong."

"Can you tell me Mrs. Blank's telephone number" inquires an irate feminine voice, "she has been talking about me and I want to call her up and call her down." "One moment, madam" soothes the subtle Springs and whispers to Timmons "Get me Priestly Conyer's number, quick, so I can give it to her—Priestly will gentle her down or talk her to death, one or the other."

Next it was a lady who wanted to know how old must her child be before it was required to pay railroad fare. "Three years older than its actual age" was the sage advice given her after a consultation with H. J. Haynsworth.

"My teacher wants me to tell her who fought the Battle of Gettysburg" pipes a youngster's voice over the much-abused phone. "Grant and Lee" answers Springs. "Well, who fought the Battle of Dukeland Park" the kid persists. "Better ask Pete Dunford" says Springs, "but I think it was Louis Firpo and Carpentier."

This time it is a knock on the door and a fond mother wants to know how and where she can park her baby while she plays a game of bridge. "Take it to Mills Hunter" suggests Timmons "or to Viv Manning—one is an authority on parking laws, the other on babies."

Once more the telephone interrupts. "There's a woman having a fit on the street in front of my home" cries a voice, "what is the Chamber of Commerce going to do about it". "Rush Curran out there on a motorcycle" is the prompt response.

Jop Richman brings in his problem. "How long should mens' trousers be worn this season?" he asks. "This season?" queries Timmons, slightly bewildered, "why, I've already worn mine three seasons!" Jop tries again: "Well, will you tell me how high above the ground should a young lady wear her skirt this fall?" "Sure" grins Bill, "just above two feet" and Springs beams enthusiastic approval while the Reporter ventures the remark that a short skirt seems to be Bill's long suit.

An eager Fan gets the wire. "Say" he asks, "which is the best Coach, Heisman or Knute Rockne?" "Billy Laval" is the ready reply. "Well, who is the Brains of the Greenville Baseball Club?" "Scoop Latimer". "What will be the Salary Limit for our team next season?" "Allen Graham's Bank-Roll." "Who will win the State Football Championship?" "Aw, go to—Marietta and ask Norwood Cleveland" mutters the Secretary, disgustedly.

Again the telephone sounds. A Darkey is on the wire. "Is dis Mister Commerce?" he asks eagerly. "No, this is Mister Chambers" replies Springs goodnaturedly. "Well please, suh, ken you tell me how to kill Bool Weevils?" "Certainly" responds the resourceful Colonel, "Catch them in Mole Traps and then scald them to death with hot water".

There is a brief pause during which Springs peruses the "Georgetown Galloper" and Timmons

"Every producer is faced with the responsibility of getting his goods to the retail counter at the lowest possible cost."

I wish "Greenville" used red ink, so I could have that printed in large, gory type. There is loud wailing, and gnashing of teeth to be heard in the Middle West, and soon the halls of Congress will resound to the same raucous cries.

Wild-eyed "economists" are blaming the high cost of everything on everybody they can lay hands upon. The Retailer—gr-r-r! He makes thirty percent gross profit!! Gr-r-r-r (No explanation given, though, that his net profit sometimes "aint")

The Wholesaler! Woof-woof! He's a Middle-man; down with him! (No credit given him for his very important economic functions)

Advertising! Off with its head, it costs money. No matter if it does actually reduce the cost of things to the consumer. No matter if it does make possible a multitude of the quantity produced things we have today. No matter about anything; down with advertising.

They talk that way. Really they do. And gradually they are working their way back to the source of things, searching always for someone new on whom to blame the high costs their constituents complain of.

So as I say, every producer is faced with the responsibility of getting his goods to the retail counter at the lowest possible cost.

We have here in the Piedmont region a great advantage—but we don't use it more than half the time. We have cotton, power, labor—all in the same place. We can produce textiles at low costs, and we do.

But what happens then? Those textiles are shipped east somewhere to be finished. Forget the other phases of that great wrong, and consider simply the cost in dollars and cents to the people of the United States. Those textiles shipped from here to New England and thence to, say, St. Louis, cost the people of St. Louis a cent more per yard than the same goods shipped direct from Greenville to St. Louis. Multiply that by millions of yards!

What would the wild-eyed "economists" say to that? Of course there are reasons for all this, but they can be wiped out, and they are being wiped out. And it is the function of the Home Industries Committee to help wipe them out.

It isn't needful to go into the multitude of things that add to the cost of goods. Some are necessary, some are just plain waste—barnacles on the keel of progress. Parasites!

All this seems far away from Trade-marks. But it isn't. It is simply part of the whole. The South must learn to merchandise its products better. Too often the Southern mill stops with production, shrugs its shoulders and says—"We don't bother with that part of it."

But "that part of it" is more than half. In the average New England mill they have two vice-presidents. One is "Vice-president in charge of production", the other "Vice-president in charge of sales". And usually when they need a new President, it is the latter of the two Vice-presidents, the salesmanager, who goes up. And that is just as true of the west, where selling is the better half of production.

There's no money to be made on goods that lie in a warehouse. They must get into the hands of a retail merchant, who sells them to the consumer, before they make a profit for anybody. And the quicker they get to that retail counter the more profit all around.

"Every producer is faced with the responsibility of getting his goods to the retail counter at the lowest possible cost", of searching the system by which his goods are moved, or finding out where the weak spots are, of learning where unnecessary costs enter in, of cutting out those waste spots with a ruthless hand.

It is his responsibility to himself, to his stockholders, to the merchant, and to the great consuming public.

GREENVILLE AT BOSTON

Reports from Fred Bryant, Ed Howard, Secretary Timmons and the many other Greenville men who attended the International Textile Show at Boston the week of October 29th, indicate that "The Textile Center of the South" has been ineffaceably put on the map in New England.

The Chamber of Commerce Exhibit was said by all to be one of the most attractive exhibits in the Hall and Chairman Bryant and his committee deserve very great credit for the splendid work done during the show.

ANNUAL REPORT OF THE EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE

sembly to the Chamber of Commerce, covering the ground on which the present Chamber of Commerce building stands.)

(2) The securing and entertainment of the convention of the U. S. Good Roads Association and the Bankhead National Highway Association, a most successful and splendid program of entertainment was carried out for the thousand odd visitors who came here for the meeting of these two organizations. The U. S. Good Roads Show was also held at this time, and a splendid array of exhibits was shown at Textile Hall.

(3) Engineered and carried out a strikingly successful Acquaintance Tour through Tennessee, Georgia and part of South Carolina.

(4) Thru its Industrial Bureau was largely instrumental in bringing to Greenville the Southern plant of the Steel Heddle Manufacturing Company, the largest manufacturing plant of the kind in America.

(5) Co-operated with local capitalists in securing the location of the $1,000,000 Southern Worst-ed Plant at Paris on the old site of Camp Sevier. This plant is now in course of erection and will probably be in operation within the next six months.

(6) Put on one of the most unique and attractive exhibits at the Made-in-Carolinas Exposition at Charlotte, co-operating with the J. E. Sirrine & Company, and local manufacturers in thus bringing the products of Greenville before the thousands of visitors to this splendid show.

(7) Put on one of the most successful exhibits seen at the Boston International Textile Show, held at Boston, Mass., and visited by approximately 100,000 people from all over the United States, in this was instrumental in securing national advertising for Greenville, in an amount the value of which it would be difficult to estimate.

(8) Brought about a closer and more cordial relation and understanding between the farmers of the surrounding territory and the business men of Greenville.

(9) One of the most important and far reaching accomplishments of the Chamber of Commerce during the past year, and one which it is believed is destined to result in inestimable benefit to the entire State of South Carolina, a movement which it has been declared sounded the clarion call for the dawning of a new day of prosperity and progress for the Commonwealth, was the inception of a comprehensive plan for organizing the entire State to put on a campaign of national advertising for the State. To this end, through the efforts of the members of this organization, the Governor of South Carolina, co-operating with various strong state-wide organizations, such as the South Carolina Bankers Association, Co-operative Cotton Growers Association, The Cotton Manufacturers Association, The Retail Merchants Association, The State Dental Association, and other bodies, called a Publicity Conference to meet at Columbia to consider ways and means of carrying out the suggestion of this organization for such a national advertising campaign. This meeting was held with some 175 representative citizens present, and a plan of organization as worked out by the officials of this body adopted and put into operation. This organization is now beginning to function, and it is believed that within the next few months the advertising campaign will be a reality. Various members of your organization have worked long and untiringly to bring about this campaign, and if the campaign is carried to a successful issue, it will be due in large measure to their unselfish efforts.

(10) Another matter of prime importance not only to Greenville, but to the whole state of South Carolina, the revision of the present tax system, to bring about a more equitable system of taxation, less burdensome taxation, and better equalization of taxes, and to raise more revenue and at the same time lessen the burden of individual taxes, has been gone into and given most careful consideration by the special tax committee of the Chamber of Commerce, headed by W. C. Beacham, as chairman, and including in its membership, H. J. Haynsworth, W. P. Anderson, Aug. W. Smith, J. W. Norwood, F. F. Beattie, W. E. Beattie, J. F. Gallivan, J. W. Kirkpatrick, A. B. Meyers, John W. Arrington, John T. Woodside, W. P. Conyers, John D. Harris, John A. Russell, W. K. Livingston, B. E. Geer, E. M. Blythe, D. C. Durham, D. E. McCuen, and John M. Palm.

This committee has held many meetings, and two large section-wide conferences, at which there were present representatives from a score of towns and cities, members of the legislature, members of the State Tax Commission, and tax-experts. This committee has gone about its business in a thoroughly business-like manner, first studying carefully the present system, hearing from various individuals, including officials, tax payers and tax experts. It has considered a large number of proposed plans for a revision of the tax system, and from the vast amount of data gathered in its work has been of valuable assistance to members of the State legislature. The committee expects to hold another state-wide tax conference in Columbia in the early part of December for the purpose of getting concerted action by influential citizens on a tentative program of tax reform to be presented to General Assembly at its next session.

(11) The special educational committee of the Municipal and Public Affairs bureau, headed by C. O. Allen, and including B. E. Geer, A. F. McKissick, Miss Julia Charles, Mrs. M. P. Gridley and E. M. Blythe initiated the movement and formulated the plan which resulted in the consolidation of the suburban and industrial school districts into the Parker School District—a consolidation which will result in greatly increased school facilities for the territory involved, and will release a considerable number of seats in the city schools.

(12) The Main Street extension committee, headed by John A. McPherson successfully negotiated an agreement with property owners and the city council to extend Main Street from Earle street about two miles north to join with the Camp Road. Much of the work involved in this project has been accomplished, and it is expected that the extension will be completed and opened to the public within a short time. This project opens up a considerable area of desirable residential property, and affords a short cut to and from Camp Sevier.

(13) The special parking committee of this organization, headed by J. W. Kirkpatrick and W. H. Keith rendered valuable assistance to the members of the new city council in studying the traffic and parking problems of Greenville and in working out a new and better system of parking automobiles in the down town section of the city.

It has been the policy of the president of the Chamber of Commerce to appoint special committees to do special work, and these committees have all functioned efficiently. The details of their activities can be only touched on here.

(14) A special committee was appointed early in the year to work for a better understanding and better co-operation between the whites and colored people of Greenville, and although the activities of this committee cannot be given in detail, it can be said that this has proved one of the best committees in the entire Chamber of Commerce. Several important conferences have been held with the leaders of the colored race here, and much excellent work has been done.

(15) A special committee appointed by the president to assist in the park program of the city of Greenville, to interest large land owners in making donations of land for park purposes, and to otherwise help in getting an adequate system of public parks for the city has done much valuable work, and it is expected that as a result of the activities of this committee, Greenville will receive donations of several sizable tracts for park purposes.

(16) During the year the organization has gone on record as favoring the acquisition by the city of a bigger and better source of water supply, and the facilities of this organization have been placed at the disposal of the proper authorities in securing the services of experts along this line.

(17) The Chamber of Commerce Magazine has proven a valuable medium through which to disseminate information concerning the activities of the organization, and in addition to this has contained a number of unusually interesting articles by various members of the Editorial Council and other Greenville writers. Your committee believes that the magazine offers an increasingly valuable medium through which to spread the gospel of civic co-operation, to tell the members of the organization about the work of the organization, and to otherwise assist in keeping the good things of Greenville before the citizens of Greenville. The magazine published a special supplement on the Booster Tour this year, and ten thousand were distributed enroute.

(18) The county Fair committee of the Chamber of Commerce did valuable work in co-operation with the officials of the fair association in selling enough stock in the fair association to cover a shortage in receipts at last year's fair, and a committee from the Woman's Bureau was instrumental in making the 1923 fair the splendid exhibition it was. This committee has worked against heavy handicaps, and the fact that Greenville had a successful fair in 1923 is due in no smaller degree to its efforts.

(19) No summary of the activities of the Chamber of Commerce would be complete without mention of the splendid work of the Builders Bureau under the direction of its president, J. C. Plowden, in putting on the Southern Homes Show, at Textile Hall, the last week in October. This was a splendid exhibition, and the Builders Bureau deserves the lion's share of the credit for it. Another fine piece of constructive work done by this bureau during the year was the Better Homes Week and the Model Home built, furnished and exhibited to the public by this bureau in connection with the Woman's Bureau. This model home was awarded fourth prize among all the model homes shown in the United States. Further details of these two undertakings will be found in the reports of the Builders Bureau and the Woman's Bureau.

(20) Your executive committee desires also to commend the Junior Bureau for its splendid work in behalf of the young men and young women of the city. The Juniors successfully conducted a campaign to raise a fund of $2,000 for a High School athletic field, and on the completion of this drive, helped further in securing a plot of ground and having it put in shape for an athletic field. The Junior Bureau has done well during the year, and the organization seems now to be on a firm footing and destined to become a real training ground for good citizens. Its officers and directors have worked untiringly in the interests of the organization, and to these splendid young men is due a large measure of credit for fostering high ideals of citizenship, and by their examples, leading others to take an active interest in public affairs. They will prove worthy successors to the older members of the Chamber of Commerce when it shall be necessary for the younger men to surrender their places to still younger men who will be quick to follow in the footsteps of the Juniors.

(21) Your board of directors has met on an average of about twice a month to consider various matters brought before it, and to formulate and enunciate the policies of this organization. Your executive committee has met a number of times during the past year, and has passed on any matters brought before it through the proper channels. The various bureaus and committees have held meetings continually during the year, and hardly a day has passed without from one to six meetings of a bureau or some important committee of the Chamber of Commerce being held in the Chamber of Commerce building. The records of all of these meetings are on file in the offices of the organization, and are open to the inspection of any member of the Chamber of Commerce at any time. The reports of the various bureaus, which are attached hereto and made a part of this report, outline in more detail the work done during the year, and will, your executive committee believes, prove a source of pride and satisfaction to every member of the Chamber of Commerce, as well as furnish an inspiration to each and every member to do more and better work during the coming year, and to identify himself and herself more closely than ever before with this splendid organization of earnest, patriotic, forward-looking citizens.

Before closing this summary and going into the reports of the various bureaus, your executive committee wishes to express to every member of the Chamber of Commerce, individually, its sincere thanks and appreciation for the splendid support given the committee and officers of the body during the past year, for the fine work done, and for the many splendid suggestions offered, for the whole-hearted unselfish work done for Greenville; to the press of Greenville for the generous space given to the activities of this organization, and the support extended to the projects fostered by this organization, and to every organization and individual who has aided in any way the work of this body.

Your committee desires to express to President Holmes B. Springs and to Secretary William R. Timmons, and to the members of the office staff of the Chamber of Commerce its especial thanks for their splendid work.

The reports of the various bureaus of the Chamber of Commerce, which are made a part of this report, are as follows:

AGRICULTURAL BUREAU

W. P. Conyers, President

THE Agricultural Bureau of the Greenville Chamber of Commerce, of which I happen to be President, is so far as I have been able to ascertain, one of the best organizations of its kind in the South.

Strange to say, too, the basis for the idea originated at a Secretaries' Convention. Our Secretary returned from a meeting of the Southern Association of Secretaries several years ago thoroughly convinced that something should be done in the matter of agricultural development and securing co-operation between country and city. After a conference with several of the real dirt farmers of the county and several of the city farmers, it was decided that a Farmers' Bureau should be organized, and that there should be five members in the Bureau from each township in the county, there are sixteen in Greenville County, and an equal number of men from the city itself, making a total of 160 members. The town men were selected on account of their interest in agricultural matters, expressed or implied, and included bankers, merchants, manufacturers, retired capitalists, etc., while the five members from each township were selected in co-operation with the County Agent and several old residents who knew the county from one end to the other.

The qualifications, of course, of the town members were simply membership in the Chamber of Commerce and willingness to serve as members of the Bureau, while the Board of Directors made a special ruling in the case of the country members, giving them full membership in the Chamber of Commerce, with the privilege of receiving the magazine, attending meetings, etc. for $3.00 per year.

So much for the frame work of the organization. The next question was, "Will it function properly?" After further consideration it was decided to meet on the third Saturday of every month during the year; that half the meetings, or as nearly half as possible, be held in various portions of the county, in the form of picnics, at which the citizens of the town would be the guests of the farmer members and their families, these meetings to be held in the spring and summer, while the fall and winter meetings would be held in a hotel in town with the farmers as guests of either the Chamber of Commerce, the Clearing House Association, the Wholesale Merchants, or some other group of citizens. At the picnics the programs should be of one and a half hours lengths; at the luncheons in the city the time limit should be one hour. It is always desirable to have the country people participate in the meetings. Usually a prominent farmer of the neighborhood is introduced and extends a welcome to the city folks and others, it is also well to have local talent render one or two musical selections and try to make country people realize the organization as much theirs as the city's. By all means limit speakers as to time, and whenever they exceed their allotted time, call them down. This requires that all orators exercise their "terminal facilities", and it is exceedingly important and desirable. If you are not careful they will talk your proposition to death.

The past two years have demonstrated the fact that the system adopted was not only workable but immensely desirable and the results achieved have been tremendously helpful to both the town and the country.

In addition to handling between fifteen and twenty thousand dollars' worth of Calcium Arsenate at cost to the farmers, our various committees have been active, in co-operation with the County Agent, in spreading information about agriculture generally, but with particular reference to the cultivation of cotton under boll weevil conditions. The value of co-operation marketing of leguminous crops, the careful selection of seeds, the importance of crop rotation, the suiting of these to soil and season and the adoption of the slogans, "the hog, the hen, the cow, lime, legume, and live stock" have been advocated. In fact, the plan contemplates the consideration of many questions, both local and national, which have a tendency to help or hinder the farmer.

Among the noted men who have addressed the Bureau from month to month were: Ex-Governor Cooper, Dr. W. W. Long, Dr. W. M. Riggs, R. H. Ward, Asbury F. Lever, Cong. J. J. McSwain, Roland Turner, Senator Dial, B. Harris, Cong. Jimmie Byrnes, A. F. Conradi, Dr. Andrew M. Soule, President of the Georgia Agricultural College, V. M. Montgomery, Mr. Gaston, known as "Alfalfa Gaston", Editor Cobb of Atlanta and even the Governor of New Mexico.

One of the main objects of Farm Bureaus, indeed I am almost persuaded to say the main purpose of such organizations should be the cultivation of closer and more cordial relations between town and country. It is an unfortunate fact that feelings of suspicion and antagonism have developed between the business men of the cities and the farmers, instead of an intelligent understanding on both sides of the fundamental conditions which affect the prosperity of each. In this respect they are both very much to blame. The business man is inclined to regard the average farmer as an unreasonable radical, who is incapable of obtaining an intelligent view point of the economic fundamentals of existing situations. The farmer on the other hand is inclined to regard the average business man as a profiteer and an arch-plotter against his economic prosperity. One of the crying needs of the situation is a better interpretation of the problems of each to the other. If Farm Bureaus the country over could be established and consummate this devoutly to be wished for end they would indeed have accomplished something worth while.

Mr. Julius Barnes, President of the United States

Chamber of Commerce, recently said: "If we can succeed in securing the interest of the business men in agriculture and the lending of their experience and ability to the solution of the problem, we will indeed have done the greatest service to agriculture that I can conceive."

Of all the vocations of life farming antedates them all and is the most necessary. The prosperity of all business is dependent upon the prosperity of the farmer to a far greater extent than many business men seem to realize.

In conclusion, I urge you gentlemen to use your influence to have your various organizations work together to the end that permanent prosperity be established to the farmers of this state.

AUTOMOTIVE BUREAU

Eugene B. Smith, President

THE Automotive Bureau, during the past year, has served the automobile industry of Greenville faithfully and efficiently. The greatest single accomplishment of the bureau, perhaps, has been the establishment and cementing of a spirit of cordial co-operation among the motor car dealers of the city, not only as between themselves, but also among the many accessory dealers, and garages.

In March the bureau staged Greenville's biggest and best automobile show, at which there were more than 20,000 visitors; exhibits valued at a quarter of a million dollars, and the show brought about sales aggregating well over one hundred thousand dollars, it is estimated. All of the many details of organizing and carrying to a successful conclusion the automobile show was done by committees of this bureau, and throughout the course of the weeks which preceded the show, the bureau functioned quietly and efficiently.

Another accomplishment of the bureau which is worthy of special note was the establishment of a standard, equitable basis of trading in used cars. The bureau, through a special committee appointed by its president, undertook to make a comprehensive investigation of the manner in which the besetting problem of handling used cars was being solved in the larger automobile centers of the United States, and of working out some suitable plan for adoption by local dealers who were members of the bureau. A plan such as has been used with a considerable degree of success by the Chicago Automobile Dealers Association, and others in various parts of the country, was finally adopted, with slight changes by the membership of the bureau. This, in effect, established a standard of prices to be allowed for all makes of used cars, the members of the bureau agreeing to abide by the schedule of prices as outlined in a book secured from Chicago, and which schedule was adopted by the bureau. The bureau had printed and distributed to its membership, copies of this book and the plan worked excellently. It undoubtedly saved many thousands of dollars for bureau members, and did much to eliminate harmful practices among dealers.

Members of the bureau, acting on the request of the bureau head, co-operated with the publicity and convention bureau in entertaining visitors to the various conventions held in the city during the past year, furnishing cars to take the visitors to ride, and on various trips to near-by points of interest.

During the fall, winter and spring the bureau held monthly luncheon meetings, which were well attended and proved both interesting and inspirational, and served to promote to a large extent the spirit of good fellowship among the automobile dealers of the city.

BOOSTER BUREAU

Wm. F. Robertson, President

THE outstanding accomplishment of the Booster Bureau during the past year was the Georgia-Tennessee Acquaintance Tour, which took one hundred and twenty-seven of the leading business and professional men of the city and section on a good will tour of three states, visiting some thirty cities and towns and covering over a thousand miles of territory. It is impossible to estimate in any concrete manner the good coming out of these Acquaintance Tours, which the Booster Bureau has successfully conducted for the past three years. Those who make the tours are always high in their praise of the good done, and those cities and towns visited show every evidence of appreciating the visits paid them by Greenville men.

In addition to the Acquaintance Tours, the Booster Bureau holds luncheon meetings each month, at which some outstanding speaker makes an address upon some timely and enlightening subject. These meetings are proving increasingly popular each month, and unquestionably they do much to cement business and personal friendship among the members who attend. The bureau has not failed to take its proper part in any general movement looking toward the progress of the city and in the selection of various important committees, its membership has been freely drawn upon.

At its monthly meetings the bureau has devoted a part of the time of each meeting to an "open forum," and members have brought up in these open forum meetings, matters touching upon the welfare of Greenville, and through this department have come a number of suggestions which have resulted in improvements to the organization, the declaration by the bureau and the Chamber of Commerce of definite policies regarding civic improvements being contemplated, and have proven to be an excellent forum from which to disseminate public opinion as expressed in the representative body of men composing its membership.

While the bureau takes no definite action in regard to any matters, it is the body in the parent organization to which any member may bring his views on any subject, and from which members may have any matter referred to the proper committee or bureau of the Chamber of Commerce for action—in other words, the "open forum."

Among the prominent speakers who have addressed the bureau during the past year are: Dr. John E. White, of Anderson, Hon. Christie Bennett, former United States Senator, Forrest Adair Sr., Atlanta Realtor, Roland Turner, General Industrial Agent, Southern Railway, W. N. Mitchell, Dr. Ira N. Hollis, President of the Worcester Tech, E. T. Schaffer, James P. Gossett, and Dr. J. F. Jacobs. Other speakers, too numerous to mention here, have also addressed the bureau.

The bureau has more than justified its existence in many ways, not the least of which is the splendid spirit of good fellowship which it has engendered among the entire membership of the Chamber of Commerce. Members of every other bureau are also members of the Booster Bureau, it is the common meeting place and forum for those of any and all professions and businesses.

BUILDERS BUREAU

J. C. Plowden, President

THE Builders Bureau has rendered valuable aid to its members during the year in acting as a clearing house for plans, specifications, notices of work to be done, and in various phases of building activity. The bureau conducted a Builders Exchange for a time, but when it was found that this put too much of a financial burden on the organization, it was discontinued. The bureau, however, continues to function.

The outstanding features of the work of the Bureau for the past year was the co-operation rendered by the bureau to the Woman's Bureau in making Better Homes Week in Greenville the splendid success it was. The builders put their shoulder to the wheel, made it possible for the women to offer to the public, one of the most attractive Model Homes shown anywhere in the United States. The members of the bureau aided very materially in construction, decoration, and planning of the Model Home.

Another outstanding feature of the bureau's activities during the past year was the Southern Homes Show, which was held in Textile Hall during the last week in October. The bureau put the show over, when it was to all intents and purposes, quite dead. Members of the bureau made trips to North Carolina to secure the co-operation of the furniture manufacturers of that state in making the show a success, and secured enough exhibits to put the show on its feet. Members of the bureau exhibited at the show, and brought other exhibitors in, and on the whole is due credit for the show in a large measure.

Throughout the year the bureau has fostered various forms of publicity looking toward the construction of better homes, and when the Chamber of Commerce magazine issued a special "Own Your Home number," members of the bureau co-operated in preparing articles and taking space.

GOOD ROADS BUREAU

B. H. Peace, President

THE Good Roads Bureau maintains a road information service, and this feature has proven to be of great service to the thousands of automobile tourists who come through Greenville from one year's end to the other. An average of from 25 to 50 persons a day apply at the Chamber's office for information about roads, and this, in addition to road maps, is furnished.

The bureau played an important part in securing the convention of the U. S. Good Roads Association, The Bankhead National Highway Association and the U. S. Good Roads Show, and its members were prominent among those who assisted in the entertainment of the hundreds of delegates and visitors. The bureau co-operated with the convention committee in furnishing automobiles to carry the visitors to Clemson College, on Paris Mountain and to other points of interest.

One of the most important features of the bureau's activities during the past year was the invaluable assistance given the county delegation and others working for the passage of the $600,000 road bond issue election. Members of the bureau worked hard and untiringly to secure the passage of this important measure, and the hard surfaced roads will in all probability be started early in 1924.

Some of the projects fostered by the bureau are now being constructed, including the new Geer Highway, and the bureau has been active in spurring the county and state highway department authorities to keep the roads in good condition.

The bureau co-operated with the Chamber of Commerce of Hendersonville in staging a big get-together meeting at that place on May 3. This was held on that date, and proved a most enjoyable and successful meeting. The bureau sent a large delegation to Columbia to confer with the Governor on a program of highway construction and maintenance in the State and the suggestions offered by members of the delegation were favorably received by the Governor.

The bureau hopes during the coming year to materially aid in pushing the $60,000,000 bond issue for state-wide roads to a successful issue, and stands ready at all times to lend its aid to those in official position, and to any citizens desiring to aid in the work of keeping Greenville county ahead of any other county in the State in the matter of good roads.

INDUSTRIAL BUREAU

D. E. McCuen, President

WHILE the Industrial Bureau, as a part of the Chamber of Commerce does not sell stock in any enterprise, or otherwise seek to influence people to invest in enterprises, of any character whatsoever, the bureau does, nevertheless wield a potent influence in securing the location of manufacturing plants and other industries for Greenville.

The bureau numbers among its members many experts in various branches of manufacturing and merchandising, and the experts give their services unstintingly in collecting data which will be of benefit to those seeking a location for industries in the South. Through the efforts of the bureau, business and manufacturing interests in many parts of the United States have been appraised of the advantages offered by Greenville as a location. The bureau is constantly reaching out for new industries for Greenville.

After more than three years of effort, the bureau believes that it is now able to assure the membership that a new and handsome hotel will be erected in Greenville within the next few months on the old Mansion House site. While the bureau, in this instance, as in others, could not as a matter of policy, engage in the sale of stock in the proposed hotel, it was through the efforts of the bureau's hotel committee that the project has reached its present stage. The bureau has spared no effort or pains to interest capitalists and hotel operators in the proposal to build a new hotel in Greenville, and it believes that its efforts went far toward carrying the proposition to a successful conclusion. Members of the bureau, in their individual capacity, have done even more than it was possible for the bureau to do in its official capacity in this matter.

While the bureau does not wish to take credit to itself for anything which it has not actually accomplished, it believes that the steady growth and expansion of the industries of Greenville, the constant additions and enlargements, and the large measures of success with which new industries have met, is due, in no small measure to the services which have been rendered to the industrial community as a whole through the collection and distribution of facts and figures relative to markets, labor, raw materials, cost of ground and other valuable assistance which the bureau has rendered to industries contemplating the erection of plants here.

Among other projects which have located in Greenville the past year, and to whom the bureau offered information and assistance where desirable or necessary: the Southern Bleachery, The Southern Worsted Plant. This plant will be the first large plant of its kind in the South, and will represent an investment of more than $1,000,000; the Southern plant of the Steel Heddle Manufacturing Company located on East McBee avenue. The Marshall Ice Plant, on Buncombe street, near the city line, and the Manchester Shirt Manufacturing company's plant, which makes men's shirts and the Crane Company branch office and warehouse.

One of the most important functions of the bureau has been the activity of its Home Industries Committee, under the Chairmanship of Mr. Bruce Moran. This committee has successfully conducted a trade-mark contest, in which hundreds of designs carrying the trade-mark of Greenville, S. C., "Textile Center of The South," were submitted. A prize was awarded to the contestant submitting the design which the committee considered best, and from this will be worked out a "Quality Mark," which will be copyrighted by the committee, and which the bureau will authorize concerns manufacturing goods which deserve to go out over the country carrying this Greenville Quality Mark.

The committee also conducts a Home Industries page in the Chamber of Commerce Monthly magazine, and has done much fine work to spread the gospel of trade-marking products made in Greenville. The committee has established an exhibit of Greenville made and trade-marked goods in the lobby of the Chamber of Commerce building, and this exhibit has attracted favorable attention among manufacturers and visitors.

Not the least important work done by the bureau during the past year has been in keeping out of Greenville industries which the bureau believed were fundamentally unsound. In this we believe that we have saved for Greenville people hundreds of thousands of dollars which might have spent on worthless stock in industries which desired to come here and re-finance.

Brown Mahon, President

THE past year, which was the second year of its existence, was the crucial year in the life of the Junior Bureau, and the fact that the organization survived this trying period—not only survived, but grew and prospered—is sufficient evidence of the efficiency and the usefulness of the organization. The bureau is now on firm footing, has the good will of both the younger and older element of the Chamber of Commerce, and bids fair to realize to the full its possibilities as an adjunct of the parent body.

Perhaps the outstanding accomplishment of the Junior Bureau for the past year was the raising of a fund of about $2,000 for the High School Athletic Field. The mere report of this fact does not by any means do justice to the bureau and its members who worked so hard and faithfully in this fine cause, nor does it convey an adequate conception of the magnitude and importance of the task. The campaign was really the acid test of the bureau; it was the fire in which the organization was tried. Suffice it to say that the Junior Bureau won its spurs, that it proved itself worthy of recognition as an earnest, active, progressive body of young business men.

During the last winter and spring the Bureau, through the co-operation of Prof. W. H. Coleman, of Furman University, and Prof. J. Wilbur Hicks, of Furman, the members were privileged to attend classes in Public Speaking and Law. About 45 members took advantage of each of these courses, and much benefit was derived from them. The law classes will be continued this winter, under Prof. Hicks, and it is hoped that the attendance will be even larger than last year.

During the Community Fund Drive last year, many of the members of the Junior Bureau offered their services as solicitors and were very successful. The bureau furnished the Community Fund headquarters with a list of four thousand names of persons in Greenville who might be approached as prospects for contributions to this fund. The fact that the necessary amount of money was raised was due in some measure at least to the interest of the bureau and to the work of its members.

The Junior Bureau also aided materially in entertaining the many visitors to the various contentions and expositions which were held in Greenville, and had sole charge of the entertainment of the Boys Agricultural Club prize winners who were assembled in Greenville from all parts of the state for a one-day convention, and also of the national convention of the Sigma Iota Chi Sorority. The bureau also entertained the young ladies of the Girls Summer School at Furman University, and held a most interesting debate with the summer school debating team.

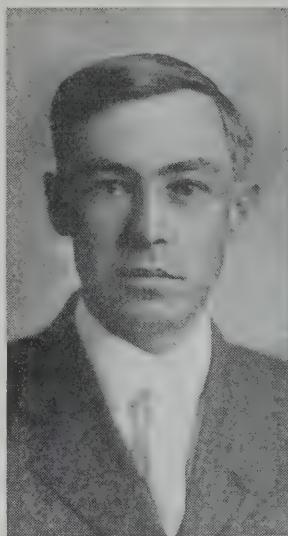

A fine brass band is being fostered and encouraged by the Junior Bureau, and will be known as the Junior Bureau Band.

At all of the meetings during the year the attendance of members has been most encouraging, and the interest shown by the membership in the activities of the bureau more than gratifying. The board of directors have held meetings on an average of once a month, and the attendance of members of the board has been splendid. The officers and directors of the bureau feel most sanguine about the future of the bureau, and in closing this report take this occasion to urge even fuller and more complete co-operation from each and every member in every undertaking of the bureau.

MUNICIPAL AND PUBLIC AFFAIRS BUREAU

L. P. Hollis, President

THE activities of this bureau include the activities of the tax committee, the committee on extension of the city limits, the inter-racial committee, the parking committee, the North Main street extension committee, and the Christmas Celebration committee. These committees have been, for the most part, covered in the summary of this report, and little need be added here.

The Community Christmas Celebration, which was arranged and carried out by a committee from this bureau, proved to be one of the most inspiring and beautiful celebrations ever held in Greenville. It is expected that another such celebration will be held during the coming holiday season.

The bureau's activities are limited only by the needs of Greenville in a civic way, and include everything pertaining to the welfare of the whole community.

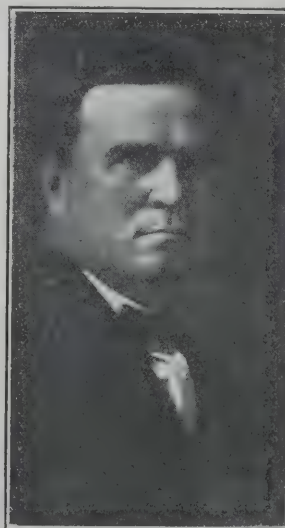

It was active in securing the passage of the $110,000 bond issue for parks, and one of its committees is now working to secure gifts of land and money for enlarging the park program.

PUBLICITY AND CONVENTION BUREAU A. F. McKissick, President

THE importance of the Publicity and Convention Bureau, and the extent of the work involved, has made it seem advisable for the Bureau to function through two major committees, one devoted to publicity and one to conventions. Therefore the President of the combined bureaus appointed Mr. John S. Taylor as chairman of the publicity department and Mr. W. A. Merritt, chairman of the convention department.

The excellence with which the publicity bureau has functioned, is well known, since hardly a day passes without several new stories about the activities of the Chamber of Commerce appearing in both of the local papers. Through the efforts of the bureau, publicity of a high order has been secured for Greenville for every convention, and generally for the activities of the Chamber of Commerce throughout the year. The publicity bureau was also largely instrumental in securing the special Greenville section of Commerce and Finance in the issue of October 24. Valuable publicity for the city was secured through this medium, which included a page of pictures of Greenville scenes and several stories of Greenville's growth and development. It is impossible to estimate in any concrete way, the tangible way the value of the enormous amount of publicity which has been gotten for the city of Greenville in various newspapers and trade publications, but it is readily apparent that Greenville has become known far and wide as a progressive, prosperous, wide-awake city—the slogan, "Textile Center of The South" is accepted and known not only in the south, but in the north and east as well through newspaper and magazine publicity put out by the bureau.

CONVENTION DEPARTMENT

TO W. Arthur Merritt, chairman of the convention bureau, and to his various committee heads, W. D. Parrish, chairman of the transportation committee, J. C. Duckworth, chairman of the entertainment committee, H. E. McDonald, chairman of the hotel and housing committee, W. H. Keith, chairman of the welcome committee and T. B. Carson, chairman of the decorations committee, is due the hearty thanks and appreciation of every member of the Chamber of Commerce and of every citizen of Greenville for their splendid work in bringing to this city more than a score of important conventions and expositions during the year, and for the vast amount of work involved in handling the various details of reception, entertainment, housing decorations and other important parts of the conventions.

To these gentlemen and to all of those who aided —and their name is legion—is due the credit for making Greenville one of the greatest convention cities in the entire south, a city renowned for its hospitality, for the fine manner in which large crowds are handled, and for the generous publicity given the conventions which meet here.

Because these gentlemen are too modest to take unto themselves the credit which is due them for the work during the past year, the Editor has taken the liberty of writing this brief introduction to the report submitted by the chairman of the convention departments. Chairman Merritt's report is as follows:

"During the past fiscal year your convention bureau has, we believe, functioned most efficiently. The bureau has co-operated with other bureaus and with the headquarters of the chamber of commerce in bringing to Greenville some twenty conventions and expositions, and has taken a prominent part in entertaining the thousands of visitors who came to Greenville to attend these gatherings.

"Perhaps the largest convention of the year was the joint meeting of the U. S. Good Roads Association. The Bankhead National Highway Association, and the U. S. Good Roads Show, which was held at Textile Hall during the last week in April. The convention bureau sent representatives to Arizona the year before and in the face of invitations from several other large cities, secure the conventions for Greenville. For weeks before the conventions met, the bureau was busy with preparations for the reception and entertainment of the hundreds of distinguished delegates and visitors who had signified their intention of attending the meetings. Together with other representatives of the city of Greenville, your bureau sent a committee to Washington to extend a personal invitation to the late President Harding. President Harding was unable to attend the meeting because of pressure of official business. The committee, however, secured the attendance of Senator Townsend, of Michigan, the entire congressional delegation of South Carolina, the Governor of South Carolina, former United States Senator Rebecca Latimer Felton, of Georgia, the Governor of Georgia, and other distinguished visitors.

"The bureau considers the U. S. Good Roads Association and the Bankhead National Highway Association convention one of the most important conventions ever held in Greenville, and it undoubtedly brought Greenville more worth-while national publicity than any other event ever held in this city.

"The convention of the Southern Intercollegiate Association held here in the early spring, was another important conclave which brought to Greenville many visitors from various southern cities; the Georgia-Carolina Laundry Owners convention also brought to Greenville several hundred delegates from those two states; while the convention of the South Carolina Department of the American Legion and the American Auxiliary brought more than a thousand ex-service men and women to the city. In these and other gatherings members of the bureau, acting for the bureau, played a prominent and important part. Entertainment was furnished, and the traditions of South Carolina hospitality fully lived up to.

"A list of the conventions and expositions held here during 1923, given below, will show the extent and importance of the gatherings held here. It has been reliably estimated that more than 20,000 visitors have spent an average of three days in the city this year, or the equivalent of 60,000 visitors for one day, and that the visitors spent an average of at least $10 per day each while in the city, or an aggregate sum of $600,000 has been left in Greenville by these visitors. It is estimated that the attendance at conventions and expositions held in the city during the year, including accredited delegates and town people will approximate 75,000. Greenville is rapidly becoming one of the best known convention cities of the south, and it is expected that during the coming year, even more conventions than last year will choose Greenville as a meeting place.

"The list is as follows: Southern Inter-Collegiate Athletic Association; Southeastern Pure Food Show; Greenville Automobile Show; United States Good Roads Association; Bankhead National Highway Association; United States Good Roads Show; Southern Educational Exposition; Southern Morticians Association; Carolina Pharmaceutical Association; South Carolina Cotton Manufacturers Association; South Carolina Retail Merchants Association; South Carolina Department, American Legion; South Carolina Department, Legion Auxiliary; Southern Homes Show; Southern Textile Basketball Tournament; Carolina-Georgia Laundry Owners Association; State Music Clubs; South Carolina Bankers Association; National Convention Sigma Iota Chi Sorority; Greenville Flower Show; B. Y. P. U. Convention; Baptist Sunday School Convention.

"In addition to the conventions which met here, your bureau has sent information and literature of all kinds regarding Greenville to a large number of state, sectional and national organizations. It has been the aid of your bureau to so entertain and please the thousands of visitors who came here for conventions and expositions that they would want to come back to Greenville. We believe that the bureau has functioned creditably on behalf of the Chamber of Commerce and of every citizen of Greenville."

RETAIL MERCHANT BUREAU

S. J. Craig, President

THE past year has seen a very large number of improvements in merchandise methods in the city as well as several of the most beautiful store fronts which have been built in the South. In other words, speaking for the Retail Division of the Chamber of Commerce, I believe the merchants of Greenville are keeping up with the splendid progress being made in all lines and if anything, we are a little bit ahead of the times.

The usual co-operative Dollar Days were conducted in February and August and plans are on foot for another Dollar Day next February. The Dollar Days this year were very successful indeed, but for some reason I do not believe there were quite as big a crowd as on last year's Dollar Days. I would recommend that for next February Dollar Day considerable more preparation be made by the merchants and more of a concerted advertising effort be launched for the affair.

In addition to Dollar Days, several other shopping days have been held which were quite successful.

The advertising committee this year, while it did not save as much money as last year for the merchants, did some very splendid work and I think the difference in figures is caused by the fact that the advertising schemes which thrive in many other cities have to a large extent been eliminated in Greenville.

During Heyward Mahon's term, $21,000 was saved to the members of the Bureau through the services of secret advertising committees, while this year we have conservatively figured the amount at $17,250.

The Bureau entertained the State Convention of South Carolina Merchants Association and co-operated in the entertainment of a number of other conventions held in Greenville in 1923.

About twelve lectures delivered by Frank Stockdale, noted merchandising expert, were enjoyed by the members of the Bureau during August. These lectures covered almost every conceivable merchandising subject from salesmanship to store management.

In conclusion, one of the most important things which the Bureau has done has been to adopt a plan of raising funds for the purpose of redeeming cotton certificates valued at one dollar each, which are given with every bale of cotton delivered at the merchants platform on East Court Street. Every cotton buyer in the city has access to this platform and hundreds of these certificates have been issued recently. It is firmly believed that this plan will bring three times more cotton to Greenville this season than was sold here at the platform last year.

TRAFFIC BUREAU

John A. Russell, President

1. Advocated and brought about Pullman service on two important trains and co-operated with railroads in fixing schedules of local and through trains for the benefit and convenience of the people of the Piedmont section.

2. Co-operated with railroad officials in seeking favorable traffic arrangements.

3. Secured specific rates and downward revision on a number of commodities. Participated in the adjustment of all class rates from to and between all points in the southeast. The activity of the Bureau in the re-adjustment of class and commodity rates will easily save the shippers of Greenville an amount in excess of $100,000.00 per annum. This work cannot be measured in dollars and cents for a satisfactory solution of the freight rate problem means that in the future Greenville will have the opportunity of becoming a great distributing center.

SOUTHERN CLASS RATE INVESTIGATION

The Interstate Commerce Commission ordered all class rates from to, and between all points in the Southeastern territory under investigation, thereby, giving the interested shippers an opportunity to participate in the re-adjustment of class rates.

Testimony was presented by the shippers and carriers at Atlanta, Asheville, New Orleans, Chicago and New York. Testimony in behalf of the shippers of Greenville was presented to the Commission at Atlanta on the 19-20th of February 1922.

Our case will be orally argued before the Commission in October, and we feel confident that the Commission's decision will mean a great deal to the shippers of the Piedmont Section.

EXPRESS RATE ADJUSTMENT

We were successful in having all Express rates placed before the Interstate Commerce Commission for investigation. Testimony was presented to the Commission at Washington in April, and we are very much pleased with the manner in which our case was received by the Commission, and hope to receive a favorable reduction in our Express rates: also, the right of shippers to designate the routing of Express shipments.

COMMODITY RATE ADJUSTMENTS

After concluding the class rate investigation the Interstate Commerce Commission has ordered all commodity rates under investigation. This will require from eighteen months to two years. It is very difficult to include all commodities in one adjustment, therefore, the shippers and carriers have agreed to make separate adjustments on each commodity.

The commodities in our first adjustment includes Canned Goods, Furniture and Agriculture Implements.

You will observe from the list of adjustments secured Greenville, that reductions have been secured on the above commodities, and with the support and co-operation of our shippers we can accomplish even better results in the handling of our future adjustments.

WOMAN'S BUREAU

Mrs. R. I. Woodside, President

THE fiscal year of the Womans Bureau of the Chamber of Commerce has been a very busy one, with a number of important accomplishments to the credit of the bureau. The remarkable success of the bureau during the past year is attributed to the fact that an active committee had charge of every undertaking and every member of every committee served faithfully and well.

The bureau is now in the midst of a membership campaign and the indications are that the present enrollment of 174 members will be greatly increased. The Womans Bureau enjoys the distinction of having a very large percentage of the membership active in the work of the organization. The bureau co-operates with the City Council, City Police Department, City Garbage Department, City Health Department, Park and Tree Commission, Veterans' Hospital, Community Service, Red Cross, Salvation Army, Ministerial Union, clubs in sister cities and all clubs in the city for women.

The bureau is now engaged in carrying out several important undertakings, including the plan to make Greenville the Crepe Myrtle City, also the proposed enlargement of the city curb market, and the erection of a shed over the market place, which the bureau hopes to have completed by the spring of 1924. A number of persons have informed the members of the Bureau that the Greenville Curb Market is the best in the State.

Many complimentary expressions were received by the bureau for the manner in which the members handled the Womans Department of the County Fair. The bureau also came in for much praise at the Southern Homes Show at the Textile Hall, Oct. 22nd to 27th, for the able manner in which it co-operated with the Builder's Bureau in making this show a success.

The accomplishments of the bureau during the past year have been numerous and varied. Some of the outstanding features of the work are the establishment of the Tourists' Camp, where the visiting motorists are furnished with lights, water, gas and a shower bath. This camp has been visited by hundreds of tourists, and has been the means of securing unlimited valuable advertising for the city.

Another big event of the past year was the Model Home Campaign, of which Mrs. R. I. Woodside was the Chairman. A house was purchased in Cagle Park and outfitted as a model home. During the time this model home was open for the public, it attracted state-wide attention, and hundreds of people visited the home, and many pleasing comments were heard on the arrangements and furnishings of the model home. Greenville won Fourth Prize.

Prominent among the events of the past year was the birthday banquet given in honor of Mrs. M. P. Gridley, when the bureau presented a silver cup to Mrs. Gridley. There were a number of distinguished guests present to join the bureau in honoring their first president.

The bureau within the past year sponsored two important movements, the first being the appointment of women on the City School Board, and the other endorsing the plan to have a woman on the Police Board for the better protection of the working girls of the city. The School Board has already elected two women, Mrs. R. E. Houston and Miss Julia Charles to fill vacancies on their board. There has been no vacancies on the Police Board, which accounts for the fact that no action has been taken with regard to placing a woman on the board.

The bureau has also taken an active interest in the city water supply problem, and has repeatedly urged that an analysis of the city water be made. The members of the bureau took an important part in assisting with the formal opening of the Woodside Bank Building.

A survey of the Secretary's records reveals many interesting events that transpired during the past twelve months, including the entertainment given the State Executive Board of the Federation of Women's Clubs, also delegates to the State Convention of the National Federation of Music Clubs. In May the bureau members were again called upon to be hosts, and this time it was the ladies attending the Good Roads Convention who were entertained.

The monthly business meetings of the Bureau were all very interesting, and on several occasions speakers of prominence appeared before the bureau. Prof. Carter Newman of Clemson College was the special guest at the April meeting dinner, and John A. McPherson, Chairman of the Park and Tree Commission of Greenville, was the honor guest at the August meeting. Mr. McPherson praised the bureau for the co-operation it was giving in helping to make the city beautiful by caring for the trees and vacant lots of the city.

WHOLESALE BUREAU

S. C. Templeton, President

THE outstanding accomplishment of the bureau for the past year was the successful staging of the Southeastern Pure Food Show, at Textile Hall, during the early summer. This show attracted hundreds of grocers throughout the Piedmont section to Greenville, brought much trade and some valuable new accounts to Greenville wholesalers, and netted the bureau a profit of $477.78.

W. J. King, chairman of the show committee, is due much of the credit for the success of the show, as he worked hard, and put his whole soul into the preparations for the event, which was a credit to the bureau and to all concerned.

In addition to the Pure Food Show, which was a notable success, the bureau held a number of meetings during the year, at which various members made talks on various phases of the wholesale business. The bureau has done much to promote good fellowship, a spirit of frankness and co-operation, and a closer association of ideas and ideals among the wholesale merchants of the city. In this respect the bureau has proven one of the most important in the whole Chamber of Commerce organization, since it is doubtful if any organization could have accomplished this important mission quite as well as has the bureau. In addition to getting the wholesalers together for their own good it has served to bring before the other members of the Chamber of Commerce the personnel of the wholesale fraternity of Greenville, in a highly creditable manner.

President Templeton has been present at practically every meeting, and has always had an interesting and inspiring message to bring to his fellow bureau members. Just before the close of the fiscal year of 1922 the bureau conducted a huge picnic.

Respectfully submitted,

Allen J. Graham, Chairman,
Edwin Howard,
John A. Russell,
F. J. Beattie,
W. A. Merritt.

mops his pestered brow. Then the phone rings again. Springs answers. A school teacher asks him who built the Pyramids. The Colonel covers the mouthpiece. "Who was it, Bill?" "Aint sure" whispers William, "but play it safe—tell her it was the Woodside Boys."

Then comes a loud, impatient knock and a Confederate Veteran enters. "Will you kindly tell me, sir, when, where and if the Monument Question will be settled?" "Certainly" answers Springs, "When Steamboats sail on the Reedy, when Dave McCuen stops telling jokes, when the Mountaineers quit Moonshining, when Doc Carpenter breaks forty on the glob course, when the Swamp Rabbit runs to Knoxville, when Wofford beats Furman, when"—but the visitor had fled.

"Gosh" exclaimed the reporter "does this thing keep up all day?" "Yep" replies Bill, "answer the phone, Colonel." The Colonel listens carefully. "You say your infant swallowed a honey bee yesterday and today he has the Hives? Don't be alarmed—nothing unusual I assure you, madam. Only last week we heard of a child on Buncombe Street who swallowed a tack and the very next day they found a nail growing on his toe".

He hung up the phone, grabbed his hat. "Come on, Bill" he said "Let's go to the Ball Game and forget it!"
